

Pay Boosts Voted For Congress and Federal Employees

Judges, Cabinet Members Included in House Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fatter pay checks for most federal workers were in prospect today after House passage of a pay raise bill that includes $7,500-a-year increases for members of Congress.

By the surprisingly large margin of 243 to 157 the House reversed its earlier defeat of a similar bill and cleared the way for Senate action on the $533-million package of pay boosts.

It includes $7,500-a-year raises for judges, Cabinet officers and top federal executives, and increases ranging from 22.5 per cent at the top to 1.6 per cent at the bottom for 1.7 million government workers.

Other Increases

The average letter carrier would get a 5.6 per cent boost of $325 a year and the average government typist and file clerk would get a $310 a year raise.

The bill is expected to be one of the first called up in the Senate after it completes action on the civil rights bill, and no difficulties are foreseen in its passage.

A number of considerations prompted the House to pass the pay bill this time after defeating one, 222 to 184, last March.

The size of the proposed congressional raise was scaled down from $10,000 a year to $7,500 and it was made effective next January, instead of this year, making it easier for members to vote for it.

Most Primaries Over

Of major importance in the view of the bill's backers, however, was the fact most state primary elections are now over. Last March the primaries were still to be faced and too many members felt it politically unwise to vote raises for themselves and then face the electorate.

Strong support from President Johnson also helped put the bill over this time, as did a powerful lobbying effort by the postal unions.

An amendment designed to eliminate the pain of voting for its own pay raises in the future was adopted by the House Thursday. It was offered by Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and would provide automatic increases for Congress whenever the top Civil Service grade gets a rise.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Rep. William Van Pelt of Wisconsin and the state's four Democratic members voted with the majority Thursday as the House approved a pay raise for 1.7 million federal workers, including members of Congress.

Also voting for the plan were Rep.'s Johnson, Kastenmeier, Reuss and Zablocki.

Opposed were Republicans Byrnes, Laird, O'Konski, Schadeberg and Thomson.

Shastri Tries to End India-Pakistan Rift

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has launched an effort to settle India's long, bitter dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

In his first broadcast since succeeding the late Prime Minister Nehru, Shastri said Thursday night "a great deal of patience will be necessary" to settle the differences, but added that India and Pakistan were linked by common history and traditions.

Shastri also appealed for harmony between India's Hindu majority and Moslem minority, now than by normalizing rela-

Speaks at Maryland Convention

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania today announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination "to offer our party a choice."

The 46-year-old governor and former congressman has been saying for almost a year that he would accept only a "sincere and honest draft."

In an 11th-hour speech arranged only Thursday night for the Republican State Convention of Maryland, Scranton declared the Republican party "is in danger if we let an exclusion-minded minority dominate our platform and choose our candidates."

Gives Party Choice

"I have come here to offer our party a choice. I reject the echo we have thus far been handed, the echo of fear, or reaction, the echo from the never-never land that puts our nation backward to a lesser place in the world of free men," he said.

Jack Conmy, the governor's press secretary, said the governor had been mulling over his decision for several days.

Scranton 'Stirred'

Reminded that Scranton said previously he never felt "stirred" before about any presidential aspirations Conmy was asked if the governor was "stirred" now.

"He's stirred," Conmy replied.

Conmy said Scranton made up his mind finally at 8:23 p.m. Thursday.

As to what impelled him to make that decision, Conmy said: "You'll have to get the specifics from him."

Asked who Scranton talked with after the decision was made, Conmy replied: "Name any big name and they would be it."

Opposes Goldwater

Asked specifically about Eisenhower, Conmy said he thought Scranton talked with the general but couldn't say for certain.

The announcement by Scranton will put him in direct opposition to Sen. Barry Goldwater. The Arizona Republican presently holds a commanding lead in the battle for national convention delegates.

A key factor in Scranton's decision, sources said, was Goldwater's vote on Wednesday.

Soviets, U. S. to Talk About Space Network

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union will begin discussions with the United States next Monday on a global space satellite communications network.

U.S. officials said the countries would try to work out a plan for coordinated use of each other's satellites.

The general outlook is favorable, however, for the Green Bay area project priority, observers believe.

If the coordinating committee endorses the Fox River Valley plan today, the next step will be a request to the 1965 legislature for planning funds for the new institution.

President and Erhard Plan to Review Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany flew into Washington today to review the German and Berlin problems with President Johnson in the light of the Soviet-East German friendship pact announced in Moscow earlier today.

Erhard declined immediate comment on the pact, saying "I must see the text first. I cannot make a political comment knowing only what the headlines say."

Responding to the welcome extended at Andrews Air Force Base by Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, Erhard said of his upcoming talks with Johnson:

"We have no concrete decisions to make, but it is opportune to draw a balance and coordinate our positions."

Also on hand at the airport was German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder who arrived Thursday and had two meetings with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

4 Killed, 112 Hurt in Dominican Blasts

Ammunition Dumps Blow Up; Santo Domingo Areas Damaged

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Explosions rocked military ammunition dumps across the Ozama River from Santo Domingo through the night.

Officials said four persons were killed and 112 wounded.

Flames set by the blasts still raged today preventing firemen, troops and police from getting close to the dumps.

The explosions caused damage in the city.

Donald Reid Cabral of the government junta said three and possibly five dumps at the army's 27th of February barracks were destroyed. He said investigators were trying to determine the cause. There was an unofficial report the blasts were started by fire in a powder magazine.

Several Shots Heard

Persons in the area heard several carbine shots just before the first explosion. It was believed these were fired by sentries giving the alarm for the fire.

The government put all hospitals and private clinics in the capital on an emergency footing.

U.S. Ambassador William Bennett visited the government house and it was understood he offered help in relief work.

Col. Luther Long, the U.S. Army attache in Santo Domingo, said the number of dead and wounded was "sizeable" but he could not say how many there were.

The blasts broke glass doors and windows throughout Santo Domingo, and dozens of persons received minor injuries from flying glass, wood splinters and pieces of masonry.

The city was on the verge of panic. In the confusion there was no possibility of an immediate check of the extent of damage or casualties.

On the main street of Santo Domingo, not one store escaped damage. Police and troops stood guard in the commercial districts to prevent looting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern foes of the civil rights bill have virtually abandoned hope of winning adoption of any additional amendments of consequence.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Dixie forces, said today that the bill's supporters evidently are not going to take any more amendments.

This was confirmed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager. He said in a separate interview that there might be some technical changes but nothing of substance.

"I don't think we have much chance on any of our amendments," Russell said, but he added that the Southerners will continue to offer them to put the

Roa Vows 'Fitting' Action After Alleged Attack by U. S. Guards

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa says his country will take "fitting" measures against attacks on Cuban soldiers by U.S. guards at the Guantanamo Naval Base.

The government Thursday night made public Roa's protest over the alleged wounding of a Cuban soldier by U.S. sentries at Guantanamo Tuesday night.

The U.S. Defense Department has denied the charge and suggested the Cuban may have been shot by Fidel Castro's own troops hunting rebels.

Russia and East Germany Sign Treaty of Friendship

Nikita Avoids New Crisis by Stopping Short of Peace Pact

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and East Germany signed a friendship treaty today but signing of a peace treaty by the avoided stirring up a major crisis with the West by stopping short of a World War II peace treaty.

Premier Khrushchev said the treaty would be an important contribution to "the peaceful regulation of the German question."

His announcement to the pact appeared couched in cautious terms.

Ulbricht's Statement

But East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht, following the Soviet leader on the dais at a Kremlin meeting, said the treaty provides that East Germany and the Soviet Union will regard isolated West Berlin as "an independent political entity which in no way is part of the West German Federal Republic and to which the competence of the West German Federal Republic does not extend."

Ulbricht had argued for a peace treaty. Speaking prior to the signing, he said: "There is no other way of insuring peace now than by normalizing relations between the two German states, disarmament, and the signing of a peace treaty by the victor powers and the governments of the two German states."

The West German government refuses to talk with Ulbricht's regime and the major Western Allies of World War II decline to recognize it.

In Washington, London and Paris statements were issued before the treaty was signed saying the Western governments would continue to hold Moscow responsible for East Germany.

The statements were in response to Soviet advance warnings of the treaty which apparently were given to avoid touching off a crisis through misunderstanding on what it contains.

The three Allied governments consulted on the development, agreed the new pact was not to be considered a peace treaty and therefore created no new critical situation.

The Soviet premier, his voice hoarse from speaking, said the

Time Sought For School Site Report

MADISON — A Kenosha citizen's committee today asked the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education for additional time to refute a staff report finding that the Green Bay area should have priority in the construction of a new four-year state-supported institution of higher learning.

The coordinating committee was scheduled to take up for action later today a recommendation of its plans committee for establishment of a new school in the Fox River Valley area in 1969 and another to serve the Racine-Kenosha area beginning in 1971.

David Rodli, chairman of the top planning agency in state higher educational programs, reported that its members have received appeals from Kenosha for an opportunity to challenge the staff report holding that the Fox Valley area educational needs are comparatively greater than in the southeastern corner of the state.

The general outlook is favorable, however, for the Green Bay area project priority, observers believe.

If the coordinating committee endorses the Fox River Valley plan today, the next step will be a request to the 1965 legislature for planning funds for the new institution.

Spears 2 Teachers To Death, Burns 29 Other Persons

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—A crazed man who fatally speared two women teachers and seared 28 children and another teacher with a flame thrower died Thursday night after he was shot by police, then gulped down poison.

The worker, Walter Seifert, 40, a tubercular lathe operator, was shot in the pelvis as he tried to flee from the school. Before police could subdue him he swallowed the contents of a small bottle of insect killer.

Doctors who treated Seifert for tuberculosis had classed him as mentally unstable but harmless. Before he died he told police he was fed up with the way physicians had treated his illness and "wanted to take revenge."

Back on Earth I'd expect to make this contract about nine times out of ten. On Mars, where everybody is a telepath, I was licked before I started. You didn't have an earthman's chance," they told me later.

West opened the queen of spades. That's another trouble with bridge on Mars. They always make the best opening lead.

I could expect to win two spades, two hearts, and four diamonds fairly easily. The trouble is that one spade stopper had to go at the first trick. If I then knocked out the ace of diamonds, they'd return a spade to force out my other stopper in spades.

This would limit me to eight tricks. Whenever I tried to develop a club trick, the enemy could take the ace of clubs and the rest of the spades.

Out On A Steal
I tried my familiar Earthy tactics. I won the first trick in dummy with the king of spades and led the jack of clubs.

On Earth, East would play low in the hope that I was going to try a losing finesse of some kind. That would give me one club trick; and I would switch to diamonds and get nine tricks before the spades could be brought in.

But it didn't work on Mars. My right-hand opponent snickered; and let me tell you—a Martian snicker is not a pleasant sound for a teetotaler to hear. "That went out with sex," he chortled. (They're very advanced on Mars.)

And he took the ace of clubs and returned a spade. That was the end of me and of the bridge game.

From here on I'm going to keep my feet on the Earth, where I can steal a trick when I need it.

The Ailing House

Floor Can Be Levelled With Mastic

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We wish to finish part of our basement into a club room about 25 by 30 feet. The concrete floor (three-inch concrete) poured over six inches of gravel) is very uneven and requires leveling before installing the tile. Is there a liquid leveling preparation which can be poured over this floor, or would you recommend a concrete resurfacing, or installing subflooring over a dampness barrier? Basement height is seven and a half feet.

A: Mastic-type, floor leveling preparations to be used specifically for this purpose over wood or concrete are available at tile and floor covering dealers. Follow label directions carefully.

Q: I recently purchased a very old wood-carved animal figure. There is no finish of any kind on the wood and it looks rather dry. There are no cracks yet, and I wonder what treatment to apply to protect it against the development of cracks or checks. What do you recommend?

A: Remove any surface dust on the figure and give the bare wood a couple of soaking coats of hot linseed oil. The oil will penetrate into the wood to prevent its becoming so dry it may crack. Put the first coat of oil on and allow to remain no more than an hour, then thoroughly wipe off the excess. Allow a week for drying, then repeat the treatment. If the figure is small enough, it's even better to submerge it in oil in a pan and actually boil it in the oil. The oil will penetrate more deeply.

Another method: Use pure, fresh, white shellac, thinned half-and-half with denatured alcohol, on the clean wood surface. Wood sculptors often favor this treatment.

Q: We have a brand new fireplace, built about two years ago. The entire fireplace has been checked and everything is okay, except that on windy, rainy days, water comes down the inside of the tile pipe (about 12 by 8 inches) into the living room fireplace. We have a fireplace in the cellar, but no water comes down that tile pipe. Can't understand why it does it in one pipe and not the other. Man who built chimney says wind pushes the rain into the tile pipe; nothing wrong with the fireplace itself. Could you suggest something to prevent this?

A: A rain hood could be installed over the top of the chimney to prevent the rain from blowing down the flue. It may well be that the air currents around the chimney are such that they blow the rain into this flue and not the flue of your cellar fireplace. If you are interested in information about proper fireplace and chimney construction I suggest you send 15 cents (no stamps) to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. 20402 for copy of "Fireplaces and Chimneys" which gives specific details in non-technical language, well-illustrated.

Shouldn't one ever use a double strand? Miss S.W.

A: Use a double strand when making tailor's tacks. At other times use a single strand to avoid twisting and snarling.

Q: I like the look of zippers that are put on by hand. Should I use any special thread for this? Mrs. H.S.

A: Use silk thread, because the stitches will almost be invisible.

Q: What does one do when she lives in a tiny apartment and doesn't have a large table for cutting out patterns? Miss G.T.

A: Buy a folding portable cutting board. Open and place it on a card table for use; then fold and store it in a closet.

Q: What is an emery bag? Miss L.A.T.

A: It is a small bag of abrasive material. You insert needles and pins into it to keep them smooth.

Q: Can I use regular chalk to mark my garments instead of the more expensive tailor's chalk? Mrs. D.A.

A: Regular chalk will blur and rub off too quickly. Tailor's chalk will give you sharp markings.

Q: On which finger should a thimble be worn? Mrs. L.L.

A: Wear it on the middle finger of the hand holding the needle.

Your Problems

Wife's Punch in the Night Makes Spouse See the Light

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the letter signed "Not Mad," because my husband used to hit me while he was sleeping too. I made excuses for Bud, just as "Not Mad" made excuses for her husband. I didn't want to face the truth, which was simply that Bud really wanted to hit me during the day but didn't have the nerve.

After innumerable black eyes and nose bleeds I decided I'd had enough. It was the night of our anniversary and he had forgotten. I didn't say a word but when a bouquet of flowers from our daughter and son-in-law arrived, Bud was embarrassed and apologetic.

He would have felt better had I lit into him, but I remained silent and pleasant. This he could not tolerate. I was certain that he would hit me that night "in his sleep."

Sure enough, about 2 a.m. I was awakened by a crack on the head. I sat bolt upright, made a dandy fist of my own and delivered an uppercut to his jaw. I have never seen such a surprised look on anyone's face in all my life. P.S. He has not hit me in his sleep since and it has been 5 years.

— Peace It's Wonderful
Dear Wonderful: Peace is more than the absence of war. I hope you have really found it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Quite by accident I learned that my 20-year-old daughter is on very intimate terms with her steady boy friend, Jack.

Janice does not know that I am aware of this and there is no way to tell her without betraying a confidence. In the meantime I've been worried to death that they might get into trouble.

Last weekend I heard Janice talking to a girl friend. She referred to Jack as "that jerk." I was shocked. Later I asked Janice if she and Jack were having trouble. She replied, "Yes, all kinds. I'm trying to dump him and he is fighting it."

I'm so upset, Ann, I don't know what to do. The only thing that has kept me from going crazy was the thought that these two would eventually get married.

Should I have a talk with Janice? —Disraught Mother
Dear Mother: And what would you talk about? Would you tell her she'd better marry Jack, even though she thinks he is a jerk?

If you can work a conversation around to the dangers and disadvantages of sex outside of marriage — and keep it plenty general — all right. But please don't try to push her into marriage. She made one mistake. Don't encourage her to make another.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This gripe has been bugging me for ages.

The problem isn't mine but I work in a store and I deal with it every day. What do you think of people who return gifts and insist on getting the money? No amount of talking can per-

Priest Tells Protestants Ways Toward Church Unity

Kaukauna Congregation Hears Discussion of Vatican Council

KAUKAUNA — A Catholic priest Thursday night gave a Protestant congregation of 200 a message that seeks to overwhelm here three things "we can do to promote Christian unity."

The Rev. Orville Janssen, editor of the "Green Bay Register," listed these:

—"Help other Christians to live more faithfully their Christianity."

—"Listen to God speaking to us through other Christians — this points out the limitations of minds which cannot grasp all the truth at one time."

—"Seek greater areas of collaboration with others."

Father Janssen spoke on "Roman Catholicism and the Vatican Council" at a meeting in Immanuel United Church of Christ.

"We have concern for unity because of the pressure of a unified evil, atheism and materialism, in the form of Communism, that seeks to overwhelm us. We need unity for that purpose."

"The missionary question triggered it all off, but I like to think that the main thrust for unity comes from the internal demands of the teachings of Christ rather than from the external pressures of communism."

Father Janssen said the seed for unity was planted in both Catholic and Protestant tradition about 50 years ago and is "not something unleashed on the world by the council or by Pope John."

He said as a result of the efforts of Protestant missionary Bishop George Brent, the World Missionary Council was formed in 1909. This led the formation in 1948 of the World Council of Churches.

The World Council of Churches, Father Janssen said, "is not a super-church, but has made conversations between Protestants possible, and this has made conversation with the Catholic Church possible."

Prayed So Hard
Also in 1909, the priest said, Friar James Paul Francis Watson founded the Friars of Atonement. Anglicans praying for church oneness, who "prayed so hard they became Catholic."

They brought the Church Unity Octave Prayer into the church, which has been part of Catholic prayers since. In 1949 the Holy Office issued a list of rules to be followed by Catholics in dialogue with Protestants. Father Janssen said, and in 1959, Pope John called the ecumenical council.

He said "to reach unity, we need dialogue. Rules therefore are paramount. These are the rules of Robert McAfee Brown."

Rules
—"Each partner must believe the other is speaking in good faith."

—"Each partner must have a clear understanding of his own faith."

—"Each partner must strive for a clearer understanding of the faith of the other."

—"Each partner must accept the responsibility in humility and penitence for what his group has done and is doing to foster and perpetuate division."

Face Issues
—"Each partner must forthrightly face the issues which cause separation as well as those which create solidarity."

—"Each partner must recognize that all that can be done with the dialogue is to offer it up to God."

Father Janssen concluded with this quote from Hans Kueng, a Protestant reformer and Catholic, "If Protestants carry out Protestant reform and if Catholics carry out Catholic reform, both according to the Gospel image, then because the Gospel of Christ is but one, reunion need not remain a utopian dream. Reunion will then be neither a Protestant 'return' nor a Catholic capitulation, but a brotherly approach from both sides with neither of them consciously calculating on the other's behalf."

Osborn, Seymour and Vandenberg, which of them has more steps to take, an approach penetrated through and through with love and wholly determined by the truth."

Two men are in a contest for the Republican nomination in the September primary; they are Lawrence D. Beck, a Kaukauna insurance salesman, and Norman Austin, Oneida town chairman and county board supervisor.

Rogers said today "the Supreme Court's realignment of the Second District helped me out personally. It almost insured my chances for re-election."

"My victory margin in 1962 would have been twice as much as it was with the precincts now included in the Second District," he said.

"Besides," Rogers added, "I didn't carry a single one of the precincts which were taken from the Second and placed in the new Third District."

I will continue to gear my efforts toward finding a solution to this problem."

Money May Be Burned

$16,000 in Cash Object of Quiet 'Treasure Hunt' on Outagamie Farm

A little-published "treasure hunt" by sheriff authorities for several weeks has been searching for upward of $16,000 in cash believed hidden somewhere on an Outagamie County farm. Sheriff authorities began the search late last spring after a retired county farmer was committed to the Winnebago State Hospital. The man has remained mute since his confinement and has refused to discuss where the money has been placed.

Authorities were called in when it was learned the man had taken money, believed to be his life savings and money he made from the sale of his farm, and hidden it or burned it.

William Rogers Tells Candidacy

Kaukauna Democrat To Seek Re-Election In Second District

Outagamie County got its first Democratic Party Assembly candidate today with an announcement by William Rogers, Kaukauna, that he will seek re-election in the new Second District.

Rogers, 33, was elected to the Assembly in 1962 when he defeated the incumbent Republican in the old Second District, Marvin E. Babbitt, Seymour, by a 1,087 vote majority.

When the Supreme Court reapportioned Wisconsin Assembly districts early in May, it placed the towns of Buchanan, Freedom, Kaukauna, Oneida, Locks, Kimberly and Little Chute, and the cities of Seymour and Kaukauna in Outagamie's Second District.

Labor Charge Against City To be Dropped

Appleton Reinstated Dues Checkoff for Teamster Members

Teamsters Local 563 will withdraw its unfair labor practice charge against the City of Appleton.

This was indicated today in a letter by Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer of Local 563, in a letter to Morris Slaveny, Madison, chairman of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board.

Schlieve said the city has agreed to reinstate the union dues checkoff which it discontinued in April.

The discontinuance was the basis of the union's complaint against the city.

Checkoff Resumed
Schlieve said he has been assured by City Finance Director Donald Hassler that dues checkoff was resumed as of June 12.

A hearing into the unfair labor practice charge had been set for Wednesday but was postponed indefinitely at Schlieve's request.

"A withdrawal without prejudice of these charges will be requested," Schlieve informed the WERB.

The action will pave the way for the city and union, which represents employees in the department of public works, to initiate factfinding authorized recently by the WERB.

Better Controls, Fewer Check Funds Requested; Finance Chief Has Started Appleton Revisions

Auditors have recommended handled, and thus provide for the City of Appleton maintain more efficient internal controls," better accounting records and internal control in connection with municipal finances.

A report pinpointing several proposed changes was filed with the city council's finance committee Thursday by Appleton Finance Director Donald E. Hassler, who said he concurred in the recommendations.

They were made by E. A. Dettman & Co., Appleton certified public accountants, hired by the city to audit municipal books. The committee will review the report at its next meeting.

Begun Revisions
Since assuming the newly-created position of finance director less than a year ago, Hassler has set the machinery in motion to make several revisions in purchasing, accounting and bookkeeping procedures.

"During the course of our examination of Appleton's record, a number of items have been presented which we feel should be changed or remedied to aid the city in maintaining better accounting records and better internal controls," the auditing firm wrote.

In order for the city to facilitate proper accounting and financial reporting and provide for better internal controls of cash receipts and disbursements, the accountants recommended that:

—"The present 14 checking accounts be consolidated into one account."

—"Complete accounting control be maintained in the office of the finance director over all cash receipts and disbursements of all funds and balances."

—"All monies collected by the city treasurer be receipted for on official city forms and reported to the finance director daily."

Bodies Remain Unidentified

Spice Awaits Word From FBI, Nebraska Prison Authorities

BULLETIN

Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) officials have identified the two men killed in a one-car crash Wednesday evening as escapees from a prison in Montgomery, Ala.

Sheriff Calvin Spice said the men were Bobby J. Ford, and Billy Winkles. Home towns or ages of the two were not included in the information from the FBI. Spice said he will be contacted by Alabama prison authorities about the two soon.

Bodies of two young men who died Wednesday in an accident while fleeing police were nameless for the second day as authorities awaited a Federal Bureau of Investigation report on fingerprints taken from the dead men.

Sheriff Calvin Spice is also awaiting word from prison authorities in Nebraska regarding descriptions of two escapees from that institution.

Meanwhile, evidence has turned up that the young men were in Appleton Tuesday night, about 24 hours before they attempted to elude a state patrolman on U.S. 41, then flipped end over end near County Trunk N.

Pushed Car
An Appleton woman said the two men followed her car on W. College Avenue near the city limits. She said the two "bumped" her car, then, with the station wagon they were driving still pushed up tight against the rear bumper, they "pushed" the woman's car up to speeds of 60 miles an hour.

The woman took the Indiana license number down when the station wagon swerved around and nassed her car.

The identification check solved.

Report on Knife Held Confidential

Spice Says Utensil Still May Be Kilsdonk Murder Weapon

A crime laboratory report on wounds received from an unknown assailant.

Tenants now occupying the farm home discovered the knife earlier this week stuffed inside the lining of a bedroom chair.

The knife was then turned over to sheriff authorities who took the knife to Madison for examination by crime laboratory specialists.

Spice said he intends to discuss the knife with Marvin Kilsdonk, husband of the slain woman, who is living with his parents in Little Chute. Spice did not indicate when he intended to call Kilsdonk in for questioning.

The bedroom chair and other furniture was left in the home for the tenant's use by Kilsdonk. The home was rented last month to a former Appleton couple.

An examination of a stainless steel knife found in a bedroom chair in a Black Creek home which last December was the scene of a brutal knife slaying, is being studied by Outagamie County Sheriff Calvin Spice.

Spice said contents of the report which was mailed to him this morning are confidential. He said he expects a further report from the crime laboratory concerning specific questions about the weapon.

Spice said information in the report does not discount the possibility the knife was used in the murder of Mrs. Florence Kilsdonk, 28, in her farm kitchen Dec. 18. Mrs. Kilsdonk died of

High Cliff State Forest Park, Marina to be Dedicated June 27

SHERWOOD — The response to the formal dedication of High Cliff State Forest Park and marina at 1:30 p.m. June 27, will be made by three area men. The men include William Nuss, Fond du Lac, vice president of the High Cliff Forest Park association; John E. Dempsey, Oshkosh, commodore of the Oshkosh Yacht Club; and Harrison Weaver, Brillion, director of the park association.

Guido Rahr, chairman of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission, is giving the dedication speech in the ceremonies, which will take place at the park on the northeast shore of Lake Winnebago. S. F. Shattuck, Neenah, said today that other participants in the dedication program will be announced within the week. The High Cliff State Forest Park and marina, located on the northeast shore of Lake Winnebago, is about a half mile off Highway 114 and is clearly marked.

County Asks Extension for Oshkosh Port

OSHKOSH — Extension of the east-west runway to accommodate jet planes and expansion of the airport to the south because of safety hazards at the north end of the north-south runway are two projects being requested by the Winnebago County aviation committee. The committee will present a resolution at Tuesday's county board meeting asking permission to request federal aid for such projects. The committee's request for such aid must be submitted to the state aeronautics commission by July 3 for inclusion in the 1965 federal airport aid fiscal year budget.

The CAB's review of Examiner Stodola's decision, the Winnebago County Airport will need improvements as well as eventual expansion to meet future aircraft needs by 1975," the committee wrote in its letter presented to the aviation committee by Richard Thern Thursday night. The Schellie plan also will be discussed and Franchett will illustrate on the program how it is set up in the valley area.

Geologic History

The state park offers impressive evidence of at least two major events in Wisconsin's geologic history. The cliff itself is formed by the outcropping edge of a massive stratum of limestone which continues eastward under Lake Michigan, and underlies most of the state of Michigan at great depth. It is the "backbone" not only of High Cliff but of the Door County peninsula. The rock strata is one of a series laid down in what may be called the "middle period" of Wisconsin's geologic history.

Mounds

Another outstanding feature of the High Cliff State Forest Park is its group of 16 woodland Indian effigy mounds. These are the second oldest group in the state. Nine are panther shaped, the others are bird mounds, and all are two feet high and vary in length from 25 to 285 feet.

Dr. Chandler Rowe of Lawrence College, checked all the known Indian tribes in Wisconsin but was unable to identify any connection between them and the mound builders. The State Historical Society places their age beyond 600 years and possibly more than 1,000 years.

"Regardless of the outcome of the CAB's review of Examiner Stodola's decision, the Winnebago County Airport will need improvements as well as eventual expansion to meet future aircraft needs by 1975," the committee wrote in its letter presented to the aviation committee by Richard Thern Thursday night.

Parents' Help Asked

Appleton Pools' Popularity Prompts Longer Schedules

Here's a twist: Appleton's municipal swimming pools have after dinner at 1 p.m. and then been swamped daily by waves of children, that is. "If more parents will send their youngsters to the pools at 3:30 p.m., it will help alleviate the overcrowding and swimming hours will be in effect at the same time the youngsters will have ample time in the afternoon to swim," Grover commented.

Supervised swimming can take place at Erb Park and Mead pools Monday through Friday afternoons from 1 to 6 p.m. The pools will continue to be open from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday nights. In the past, the pools were closed at 5 p.m. because there were not enough swimmers to keep them open, according to Grover. Along with those in the pool for the youngsters," Grover said, looking at it from a swim program, suggested parents cooperate by sending their children to the pools later in the afternoon. "What has been happening," Grover said, "is that everyone

Stock Market In Early Drop

Sperry Rand Sold Heavily During Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Sperry Rand was sold heavily as the stock market declined early this afternoon following a three-day recovery. Trading was slow over-all.

Sperry was unloaded on a series of large blocks — 17,000 shares, 15,000 and 10,900 shares — and remained under continuous selling pressure.

The selling, brokers said, was triggered by news that the highly-regarded Dr. Louis T. Radar had resigned as president of Sperry's Univac division to join General Electric. GE stock traded unchanged.

The market as a whole was in a slow, irregular decline. Gains and losses of key stocks regained mostly from fractions to a point. Some groups fought the downtrend. These included retails, aerospace issues and drugs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .5 at 383.7 with industrials off .6, rails off .1 and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .31 at 810.94.

Polaroid spurted 4 points or so and IBM was up a point. Sears Roebuck advanced more than a point with other retails up fractions.

American Telephone sank about 2 points.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate and U.S. government bonds showed little change.

Move to Seat Reynolds Appointees Fails in Conservation Commission

Chairman Guido Rahr Rules Motion Out of Order Pending Supreme Court Decision

BY JOHN LEE
Post-Crescent News Service
WOODRUFF — A motion to seat two new members to the Wisconsin Conservation Commission failed today by a ruling of Commission Chairman Guido Rahr, Manitowoc.

An attorney for Martin Hansen, Mellen, and Harold Jankowski of Milwaukee, both recent appointees of Gov. John Reynolds, appeared at the opening of the commission with a request that the commission recognize the recent appointments and seat them at this time.

The attorney Sverre Tinglum, Mellen, said if the motion to seat them is made on the basis of their reappointment last month by Reynolds, that incumbent Rahr and Charles Smith, Wausau, do not participate in the vote.

The motion was made by Commissioner John Lynch, Ladysmith, and seconded by John Schumacher, Shawano.

Out of Order

However, Rahr ruled the motion out of order.

Rahr said arguments on seating of the Reynolds appointees will be before the Supreme Court June 25.

Rahr read an attorney general's opinion stating "until commissioners duly appointed and confirmed by the State Senate, Atty. Gen. George Thompson has ruled that incumbent commissioners will retain their seats on the commission."

He said such confirmation of the appointees can not be made until the legislature reconvenes in November.

This was a second effort by Hanson and Jankowski to occupy the seats for which they were originally appointed by Reynolds in 1963.

The commission also agreed in effect.

fully with the State Conservation Congress for a variable quota on deer harvest at 35 percent of the requested harvest.

The northeastern Wisconsin counties, following an appeal of Assemblyman Paul Altoni, the quota for Vilas, Forest and Oneida Counties was set at 25 percent.

Also retained is the provision that 25 percent of variable quota licenses be distributed to the counties where the quota is retained.

the "City Treasurer" whenever possible.

—More than one person should be trained in performing book-keeping functions so that a substitute may be readily available whenever the occasion would require.

—Use pre-numbered checks properly; keep voided checks with cancelled checks; and do not type number over pre-numbered checks.

—Keep detail records of all changes in the tax roll.

—The police department get a cash register or the fines should be collected through the city treasurer's office.

Change Claims System

The alternative system of approving claims should be adopted in keeping with state statutes. This would require passage of an ordinance providing that payments be made from the city treasury after the director of finance director has audited and approved each claim as a proper charge against the treasury.

—A non-lapsing fund be created by the council in which all expenditures and revenues connected with the city's industrial park are recorded, giving a complete picture of the industrial development account and balances carried over to succeeding years.

Hassler says he has been receiving "good cooperation from department heads and city officials" with regard to revisions he has made since taking office.

The revising of the city's financial setup is a part of the transition of hiring a finance director and divorcing the position of comptroller from the clerk's office. This was done by the council in 1963.

Bulldogs Nip Sauk-Prairie In State Tourney Opener

Kenosha Edges Shawano, 4-3; Eau Claire and Columbus Also Reach Semi-Finals

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — New London, Eau Claire, Columbus and defending champion Kenosha advanced to the semi-final round of the state high school baseball tournament here with wins Thursday afternoon and night.

Eau Claire plays Columbus at 7 p.m. today and New London faces Kenosha at 9 p.m. All games are at Sawyer Park.

In first round play, the New London Bulldogs outlasted Sauk-Prairie, 12-11, in a marathon; Kenosha edged Shawano in eight innings, 4-3; Eau Claire shut out Wisconsin Rapids, 3-0, and Columbus blanked Rice Lake, 4-0.

The New London — Sauk-Prairie donnybrook was a crowd pleaser but it was a game both teams probably would like to forget. The Eagles, with a 17-1 record going into the tournament, committed nine errors and the Bulldogs booted the ball seven times.

New London did most of its damage in two innings, getting three runs in the first and eight in a big fourth on only 3 hits. They scored a single marker in the third.

Gets 5 Hits
Catcher Keith Peetz had 5-for-5 to pace Sauk - Prairie's 15-hit attack. The Bulldogs got only eight hits but made good use of Eagle miscues.

The Bulldogs jumped on Sauk-Prairie starter Allen Alt for 3 runs in the first on a walk, two singles and an error. John Moriarity drove in two runs with a perfect sacrifice bunt to score Tom Fuhrmann and Gary Glocke. They added another run in the third on a walk and a pair of singles and then exploded for eight runs, six unearned, in the fourth.

Phil Wilson led off the inning with a single through the box. Jeff Rugotska walked and Lee Drews singled to load the bases. Dave Dernbach walked to force in the first run.

Rod Hehenberger replaced Alt on the mound for Sauk-Prairie and walked Fuhrmann, forcing in another run. Glocke then hit a grounder which was booted around until three more runs scored with Glocke ending up on third. Jim Mc Daniel was then safe on an error with Glocke scoring.

Moriarity then forced Al an Kosterzak, who ran for Mc Daniel, at second. Joe Mullarkey popped out but Wilson came through with his second hit of the inning with Moriarity scoring when the catcher dropped the throw from the outfield. Wilson then scored on another error.

Final 2 Innings
The Eagles got four runs in their half of the first on three hits and two New London errors. Sauk - Prairie added three in the third, two in the fourth and two in the fifth. Mc Daniel pitched the final two innings, holding the Eagles to one hit. Glocke was the winner run-

Dropped Third Strike Leads to Colts' Win Over Cincinnati, 5-3

Drysdale Blanks Cardinals; Cubs Defeat Mets, 6-3

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

There have been 6,119 strikeouts in the major leagues this year. Pitchers have been happy about 6,115 of them.

The other four lost ball games.

It happened again Thursday night in this Year of the Dropped Third Strike as Cincinnati catcher Johnny Edwards joined a club that is quickly losing its exclusiveness.

Before Edwards could take his red face and damaged pride back to the privacy of the Reds' dugout, the Houston Colts had rushed across five runs in the fifth inning and nailed down a 5-3 victory.

Had 2-0 Lead

John Tsitouris, the Reds' starter, held a 2-0 lead going into the fifth and retired the first two men without any difficulty. Al Spangler then drew a walk and Nellie Fox followed with a single.

Bearing down, Tsitouris, appeared out of trouble when he fired a third strike by Mike White, but the ball flashed past Edwards and White raced for first, loading the bases.

Tsitouris, apparently unsettled, forced in the Colt's first run by walking Dave Roberts and then Bob Aspromonte applied the crusher by smacking a grand slam homer.

That sent Tsitouris to the showers and Edwards into the Dropped Third Strike Club.

The club has strict rules—the dropped strike must have directly led to a defeat. The other members in good standing are Joe Torre of Milwaukee, Philadelphia's Gus Triandos and Mike Brumley of Washington.

The Philadelphia Phillies, meanwhile, moved back into first place in the National League on their day off when Milwaukee defeated San Francisco 6-5 and dropped the Giants into second place, seven percentage points behind.

Third Shoutout
Elsewhere, Don Drysdale posted his third shutout with a four-hitter in the Los Angeles Dodgers' 5-0 victory over St. Louis and Larry Jackson won his eighth game as the Chicago Cubs whipped the New York Mets 6-3.

Aspromonte's homer was his third in three games. He has hit only one other. The Colts' third baseman also collected two singles and in the last three games has collected seven hits in 12 at-bats.

Claude Raymond got the victory in relief, extending his scoreless innings streak to 22 before the Reds scored an unearned run in the eighth on Frank Robinson's double and two errors by Fox.

Drysdale, bringing his record to 8-5, was in serious trouble

Spahn, Mathews Pace 6-5 Win Over San Francisco

Lemaster and Bolin Set to Duel Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves can be a great baseball team—for seven innings.

Victory began to slip away from them again in the final two innings Thursday but they pulled themselves together for a 6-5 triumph over the Giants and in the process belted San Francisco out of first place.

While the Braves remained sixth, they are now only 4½ games behind the Philadelphia Phillies, who moved ahead of the Giants by percentage points. The victory was the first for the Braves in four games with the Giants this season.

Chief among the contributors to the Milwaukee success was third baseman Ed Mathews, who was under the threat of a benching if he didn't start to hit. His lone hit was a double but it sent in three runs and he scored another with a sacrifice fly.

Felipe Alou's fifth homer was the decisive run.

The Braves' 43-year-old lefty, Warren Spahn was pretty much the mound master for seven innings, allowing one run on six hits. But then he needed relief help and got just enough from Bob Sadowski and Tony Cloninger to preserve his fifth victory in nine decisions.

San Francisco starter Jack Sanford, who was followed by three other Giant hurlers, took his sixth defeat in 10 decisions.

Spahn and Sanford hurled shutout ball for six innings, before the Braves routed the Giants starter with two runs in the seventh.

Hank Aaron singled and scored on a double by Lee Maye before Sanford got anyone out. Joe Torre's infield out allowed Maye to get to third and he scored on Mathews' sacrifice fly.

A single by Willie Mays and a double by Jim Hart gave the

Vic Power Goes to Angels in 5-Man Deal

Moran, Kindall, Green, Kostro Also Involved

DETROIT (AP)—The Minnesota Twins indicated their trading may just be beginning following a five-player swap with Cleveland and the Los Angeles Angels Thursday.

"We're still trying to get a pitcher," said Twins' Manager Sam Mele. "I don't think we're through (trading) yet."

"The deal sent fan favorite and

Power Kindall

first baseman Vic Power from Minnesota to Los Angeles, Angel infielder Billy Moran to Cleveland and infielder Jerry Kindall from the Indians to the Twins.

Minnesota also traded outfielder Lenny Green to Los Angeles for infielder Frank Kostro, now with Hawaii in the Pacific Coast League.

"Kindall can play all infield positions and he can hit the long ball. He can spell (Zoilo) Versailles at short," said Mele. "Kostro swings an aggressive bat. He's always hit wherever he's played."

Nevertheless, there was speculation that more was involved of the Houston Colts' Coca-Cola team in the Florida Rookie League.

Observers suggested Kindall might replace another infielder, such as Rich Rollins or Bernie Allen, who could be traded to boost Minnesota pitching.

Power himself was displaced at first base this season when outfielder Bob Allison took that spot to make room for rookie sensation Tony Oliva. The relegation of Power to pinch status outraged numerous fans who had become his devotees during two seasons with the club.

Green was replaced in center field last year by Jimmie Hall.

He was traded to the Twins in 1959 for Albie Pearson, who now becomes his teammate in Los Angeles.

The 30-year-old Moran who originally belonged to Cleveland, has been with Los Angeles since the 1961 season, when he was purchased from Toronto of the International League. That was the year Kindall went to Cleveland from the Chicago Cubs after the Cubs signed him to the University of Minnesota. Kostro was sent to Hawaii by the Angels this year.

Robinson's Homer Gives Orioles 3-1 Win Over Chisox

Mantle Hits Pair, Maris One As Yankees Beat Boston, 8-4

BY MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

After laboring in vain for nearly two months, Ken McBride has gone on relief and hit the jackpot.

McBride, a 28-year-old right-hander, halted his 10-game losing streak as Los Angeles nipped Cleveland 5-4 in 12 innings Thursday night.

The one-time ace of the Angels' pitching staff beat Washington 4-0 on opening day, April 13, then lost 10 consecutive games in 12 more starts. His latest start—and defeat—was last Sunday.

Then, against the Indians Wednesday night, Manager Bill Rigney brought McBride in from the bullpen for his first relief appearance since April 19, 1962. He didn't give up a hit in 12-3 innings.

He relieved again Thursday night, coming on this time in a 4-4 game with two on and none out in the ninth inning. He got Vic Davalillo on a grounder and induced Leon Wagner to hit into a double play.

McBride pitched two more innings, allowing one hit, before leaving for pinchhitter Willie Smith in the 12th. Smith's single started the winning rally.

The season for McBride has been one of utter frustration. He won 13 games and lost 12 for the Angels last year and had a 3.26 earned run average. The high spot of the season came when he started for the American League in the All-Star game.

There most likely won't be any all-starting for McBride this season—unless the AL needs a newly discovered reliever.

Twins Tip Tigers

Elsewhere in the league, Baltimore defeated Chicago 3-1. New York whipped Boston 8-4 and Minnesota downed Detroit 4-2.

After singling for McBride, Smith was forced at second by Tom Satriano. Ed Kirkpatrick's single and an intentional walk to Jim Fregosi moved Satriano to third from where he scored on Lou Clinton's sacrifice fly.

Dean Chance started for the Angels and ran his scoreless inning string to 28 before Bob Chance singled home two runs for the Indians in the sixth. Dick Howser's two-run single tied it in the ninth. Joe Adcock and Felix Torres each drove in two runs for Los Angeles.

A two-run homer by Brooks Robinson in the eighth carried the Orioles past the White Sox. The blow off Hoyt Wilhelm broke a 1-1 tie. Luis Aparicio homered for Baltimore in the sixth. Tom McCraw got Chicago off to a 1-0 lead in the first with a homer off Milt Pappas.

Bouton Wins

Mickey Mantle slammed two home runs and Roger Maris one for the Yankees. Mantle connected with one on in the fifth, then slugged his 10th homer with the bases empty in the seventh. Maris' 10th came in the third. All of the blows were off starter Bill Monbouquette.

Ed Bressoud and Felix Mantilla homered against Jim Bouton, who won his fourth game in nine decisions. Bouton doubled and scored in the fifth and belted a two-run single in the eighth.

Dick Stigman and reliever Garland Shifflett stopped Detroit on three hits as Earl Battey knocked across three runs. Shifflett pitched the ninth after Stigman walked leadoff batter Al Kaline. Bill Freehan and Don Demeter tagged Stigman for home runs in the fifth.

Battey slashed a run-scoring double in the third and smashed a two-run homer in the fourth.

This Is the Mouth of the Goulais River in Ontario, Canada where it empties into Lake Superior. Sandy beaches are lined with driftwood and there are shallow sand bars close to the lake. Walleyes, northern and steelhead trout travel up the river to spawn in the springtime. Goulais River Looks, Even Acts Like Wolf; Walleye Action Slow

Fish Unpredictable Following Annual Spawning Activity

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Outdoor Editor

GOULAIS RIVER, Ont. — The Goulais River looks a lot like the Wolf River and it also acts a lot like the Wolf in many respects.

This includes the much sought-after walleyes which inhabit it day after day around following a big spring spawning run out of Lake Superior.

Our party of six, including Post-Crescent photographer Ed Deschler, "Bud" Page, Charlie Holler and Bob Mancl, all of which were down the river. One visitor Appleton, Jim Peerenboom, of from Ohio told of being at a Little Chute, and the writer stopped off here for a brief stay while on the way to the central Ontario area for speckled trout.

We arrived about 2:30 a.m. Saturday and intended to fish out the day, get a good night's rest and head back for Sault Ste. Marie and the seaplane base early Sunday morning.

Out in Force

By the time we unpacked the necessary items for overnight and hit the sack it was about 3:30 a.m. The mosquitoes were in full force and set out with a full scale invasion of our cabin. As we carried bundles through the door when we dozed the lights you could hear the little pests buzzing around your head they just were not hitting. One and as a last resort I ducked completely under the blankets to avoid them.

We rolled out about 7:30 a.m. to get set for fishing. Several cups of eye-opening black coffee set the world to revolving on the proper axis and it was about 9 a.m. when we moved away from the dock at McDonald's Cabins.

Ed McDonald said it made little difference as to the time of day for fishing.

"If the walleyes want to bite, they will bite all through the day — sometimes a little better in the evening," McDonald said.

Up to the time we had arrived the walleye action had been slow. Here and there a decent catch was reported, but these reports were scattered by Holler and Bob Mancl, all of which were down the river. One visitor Appleton, Jim Peerenboom, of from Ohio told of being at a Little Chute, and the writer stopped off here for a brief stay while on the way to the central Ontario area for speckled trout.

We arrived about 2:30 a.m. Saturday and intended to fish out the day, get a good night's rest and head back for Sault Ste. Marie and the seaplane base early Sunday morning.

As we carried bundles through the door when we dozed the lights you could hear the little pests buzzing around your head they just were not hitting. One and as a last resort I ducked completely under the blankets to avoid them.

Highly Unusual

This was highly unusual for this time of the year on the Goulais. Normally, this is the peak time since the fish have just completed their annual spawning run from the lake to the marshy areas along the river and are returning to Superior.

McDonald told us that tests by the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests revealed that there were many fish in the river, but they just were not hitting. One speculation was that the fish had been slowed down after the lamprey poison had been put in the river.

Torinus Named Pilot Of Post-Crescent '9'

After several hours of debate Thursday on their choices for manager of the Post-Crescent team which will oppose a radio-television softball lineup Monday, June 22, members of the newspaper's editorial department reached a "compromise."

They chose John Torinus, editor of the Post-Crescent, as the pilot.

The showdown between the newspaper writers and the radio-television announcers will be the first game of a doubleheader at Goodland Field and will start at 7 p.m.

The second game will be the Foxes' regularly-scheduled game against the Quad City Angels.

The doubleheader is the feature attraction of "Post-Crescent Booster Night" for which Foxes' general manager Ralph Mueller has printed 8,000 tickets at 75 cents each.

Torinus today revealed the roster of Post-Crescent writers.

Kenosha pushed across a run in the eighth inning to beat up- minded Shawano, 4-3. The defending champions scored after two were out when shortstop Marshall Conrad threw a double play. The base runner, Chuck Lange took second and a scored on John Dagon's hit.

The Indians scored all three of their runs in the fourth inning without the benefit of a hit. Shawano was held to two hits for the entire game by Wayne Schnell and Rich Baumgarten.

Ken Brooks walked to lead off the inning. Bob Thorne was safe on an error and Vaughn James walked to load the bases. Dick Hartman then walked to force in one run and two more.

OSHKOSH — George Giesen, Menasha, won the feature stock car event Tuesday at the Winnebago County fairgrounds. Giesen beat Jerry Smith and Glen Bessette, both of Appleton.

The semi-feature was won by Jim Weyenberg, Neenah. It was the first time in four years of racing that Weyenberg had gotten the flag. He also won the second heat, beating Red Taplin, Menasha.

Weyenberg beat Ernie Fude, Ripon, and Jim Brooks, Omro, in the semi-feature.

Other heat winners were Bill Anklam, Omro, first, over Larry Hunt, Oshkosh; Mel Van Appleton, third, over Vic Sego, Red Granite, and Jerry Giesen, Appleton.

The demolition event was won by Floyd Herring, Oshkosh.

Packers Seek Additional Seats at County Stadium

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vince Shrine game late in August. Lombardi, coach and general Doane has criticized Falk for manager of the National Football League Green Bay Pack and proposing that the funds, has run a little interference come from an emergency con-for Richard Falk, who is faced tinent fund. Doane also has notified Falk Milwaukee County's Park Commission.

In a letter to County Executive John Doane, Lombardi and five Packers said that Falk had urged Thursday the expediting of a request by Falk that more than 2,000 additional bleacher seats be added to County Stadium for Packers games.

Falk has proposed that the seats, costing about $23,000, be erected before the annual waukee games.

Mel McGaha Replaces Lopat At Kansas City

New Manager Plans 'Nothing Drastic' for A's

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mel McGaha takes over as manager of the Kansas City Athletics in the city where he first managed a major league club—Cleveland.

The A's fired Ed Lopat, former New York Yankee pitching star, Thursday and immediately replaced him with the 37-year-old McGaha, coach with the club for a year.

The announcement Thursday by General Manager Pat Friday kept McGaha from going to Witheville, Va., where he was to have reported in a few days as manager of the A's Rookie League farm club.

Lopat was stoic about being fired. "It's standard procedure as far as baseball managers are concerned," he said. "It's easier to change the manager than to change five or 10 ball players."

McGaha, who flew here for a four-game series starting tonight, was asked about his plans for the Athletics, now in 10th place.

"Nothing drastic," he replied. "I intend to put the nine best men available on the field."

McGaha whose rookie season as a major league manager was in Cleveland in 1962, said he may use starters as relievers. He did that as Cleveland manager and was criticized for it.

Lopat, a coach for the A's in 1962, took over as manager on the last day of the season when Hank Bauer stepped down. Last season the club had a 73-89 record. So far this season it is 17-35.

Lopat, whose contract runs through the 1965 season, said he did not plan to accept an offer to work with the young pitchers on the club.

Former Griddler, Partner Missing On Fishing Trip

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (AP) — Gordon Paschka, 44, former University of Minnesota and pro football lineman, and a fishing companion are missing in Rainy Lake, Ontario. Provincial Police reported Thursday.

Paschka, of Clinton, Iowa, and John Shugar, 38, of Wilton, Iowa, left a dock five miles from this border city Tuesday afternoon to go up the north arm of Rainy Lake.

On Wednesday, a search turned up the boat, camping gear and personal effects of the men along the shoreline. That Red Granite, and Jerry Giesen, Appleton.

The demolition event was won by Floyd Herring, Oshkosh.

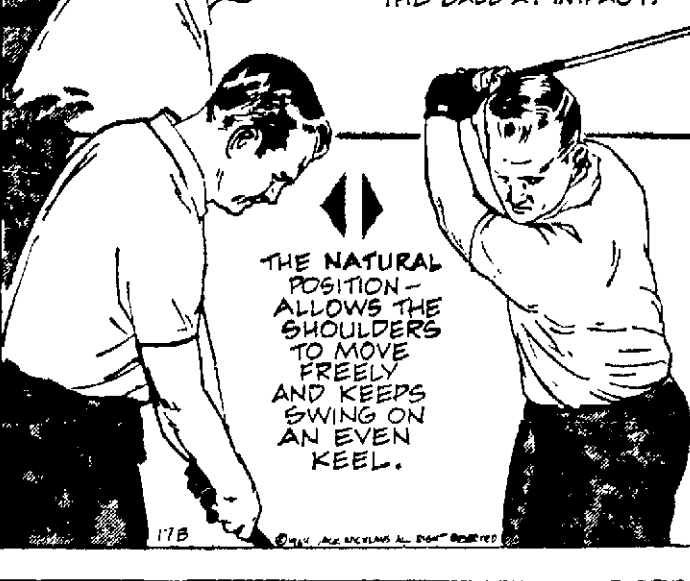

In a letter to County Executive John Doane, Lombardi and five Packers said that Falk had urged Thursday the expediting of a request by Falk that more than 2,000 additional bleacher seats be added to County Stadium for Packers games.

Falk has proposed that the seats, costing about $23,000, be erected before the annual waukee games.

Two Homers Show Mantle Switch Hitting Still Is Best

BOSTON (AP)—Mickey Mantle is one happy fella today. He's just proved the left-handed magic hasn't gone out of his switch hitting.

"For the last three or four games I've been feeling much better batting left-handed," the New York Yankee slugger said Thursday night. He had driven in three runs with consecutive homers and walked once.

"Actually I'm feeling better from both sides of the plate," Mantle continued. "But more so left-handed because I wasn't doing nearly as well there. It's just a question of seeing pitch-ling."

Operating from the portside against Boston right-hander Bill Monbouquette, Mantle hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning and a solo drive in the seventh. Both carried about 425 feet to right.

Since May 26 The homers were the first for Mantle since he returned to the line-up June 9. He had been sidelined since May 26 with the latest of his series of leg miseries which have dogged his career and grown in intensity with the years.

Mantle was particularly happy with his performance in the wake of recent talk he should abandon switch hitting and just swing from the right side. Even after the big game Thursday night, his .308 batting average breaks down to .195 left-handed and .552 right-handed.

"It's too late for me to change," Mantle said, using the same reasoning he employed when it was suggested he move from center field to first base to make his defensive duties less demanding on the weak under-pinnings.

"Anyway," Mantle added, "I'm confident by the end of the season I'll be hitting around .300 left-handed. That's what I've done all my career."

Sweeny Only U.S. Survivor In Tourney

Gains Quarter-Final Round of British Amateur Meet GANTON, England (AP) — A bit of sentiment crept into today's quarter-finals of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

One man was responsible—Bob Sweeny, 52, of Palm Beach, Fla.—the last American in the tournament.

It was "way back in 1935 that Sweeny made his mark on British golf lovers. That was the year he lost in the semifinals of this championship to fellow-American Lawson Little. Two years later Sweeny took the title by defeating L. O. Lunn of England 3 and 2 in the final.

The tall, graying wealthy sportsman made the last eight of this year's tourney with two victories Thursday. He defeated Ralph Tupling of England at the 18th, and then Peter Flaherty, an Englishman with an Irish name, 2 and 1. He faced Martin Christmas of England today.

Goos to War Six times before the start of World War II Sweeny competed in the British Amateur. Then he went to war and collected a discharge and continuing through duties with the Royal Air Force.

Luis Rodriguez 8-5 Favorite Over Griffith

15-Round Title Bout Will be Televised Live

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The world welterweight crown which has been in and out of the hands of Emile Griffith since 1961, goes on the line again tonight when the New York champion faces ex-champion Luis Rodriguez of Miami.

The 15-round bout will be televised nationally over the ABC network, starting at 9 p.m. (CDT). It will be screened live in the West instead of coming by delayed tape several hours later, as has been the procedure the past year.

Rodriguez, the 28-year-old Cuban exile who won and lost the title in two fights with Griffith in New York last year, remained an 8-5 favorite to return to the top spot of the 147-pound division.

Griffith, 25, a native of the Virgin Islands, is regarded as the harder puncher, while Rodriguez, who is slightly taller and has a two-inch advantage in reach, might be the better boxer.

Rodriguez in 60 fights has won 56, 22 by knockouts and has never been stopped.

Griffith has won 45 of 52 matches 16 by knockouts. He was stopped but once, in one round in a non-title fight with middleweight Hurricane Carter in New York last Dec. 20.

This loss presumably is the main reason Griffith rates the role of underdog.

Rodgers Takes 'Buick' Lead

Fires 67 for 1-Stroke Margin Over Rudolph GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — A bit of friendly advice from fellow-pro Jack Nicklaus prompted young Phil Rodgers to try a different approach to his game, which he used in taking the first-round lead in the $66,000 Buick Open Tournament Thursday.

Rodgers fired a 67 over the demanding 7,280-yard Warwick Hills course, taking a one-stroke lead over Mason Rudolph and a two-stroke edge over Thunderbird Open winner Tony Lema.

"A couple of months ago," Rodgers said, "Nicklaus and I were practicing and he told me I wasn't much of a golfer anymore."

"I asked if he had noticed anything particular that I was doing wrong and he suggested that we go over to the practice tee."

"We spent the whole day there and I finally overcame the one thing he saw me doing wrong—I was dipping my shoulder and wasn't getting enough power in my drives," he said.

Since then, Rodgers continued, his drives have been getting longer.

He called Thursday's round the luckiest of his career. It saw him breeze through the 18 holes with five birdies and 13 pars. He needed 26 putts in all and had 10 one-putt greens.

Rudolph had nine one-putt greens in his round, while Lema was four under par on the back nine in his 69.

State Skeet Shoot Slated In Waupaca

WAUPACA — Skeet shooters from throughout the state will compete in the Wisconsin State skeet championship which will be held here Saturday and Sunday. Competition will be held at the Waupaca Gun Club.

Shooting will get under way Tuesday morning with the .410 gauge and continuing through the day with the 28 gauge.

Came the end of the war—and 20 gauge events. The all-bore or 12 gauge event will begin Sunday morning and run through the day.

The Waupaca Gun Club was opened at noon today for shooters who wanted to practice. Included in the more than 200 shooters who are expected to take part in the events will be four from Waupaca. They are Bill and Norma Johnson, Don Edmunds and Fred Rawson.

Many of last year's division winners will be on hand to defend their titles.

Christmas defeated Jimmy Bestwick of Locust Valley, N.Y. England beat Jack Thornton of Rochester, N.Y. 3 and 2.

Third Rainout in NCAA Tourney

OMAHA (AP)—This is the year of the rains at the college World Series, and the most fidgety clubs are Arizona State, Missouri and Mississippi. They are the rainmakers.

"I'm sick of rain," said Donnie Kessinger, Mississippi's 422-hitting shortstop Thursday after the third rainout in the NCAA baseball tournament. "But at least we didn't have a suspended game like the one with Southern Cal."

The college World Series resumes this afternoon with Mississippi meeting Arizona State in a loser's bracket game. Minnesota faces Maine and Missouri meets Southern California in the two winners' bracket night games.

Arizonan May Get Many State Votes

Half of Wisconsin Delegates May Favor Arizonan When Released by Favorite Son

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — More than half of the 30 Republican national convention delegates of Wisconsin pledged to Rep. John W. Byrnes will favor the nomination of Sen. Goldwater of Arizona upon their release by the congressman.

That was the estimate today of several usually informed Wisconsin Republicans, as the Arizona senator continued to pick up delegate strength that seems likely to give him a good chance for a first or second ballot victory at San Francisco next month.

Republican informants emphasized that there has not yet been a poll of the Wisconsin delegation and there is not likely to be a group discussion of its convention strategy until the delegates and alternates arrive in the convention city about July 12.

Legal Process Advocated for Civil Rights

Retiring Official Of Bar Deplores Demonstrations

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—The retiring president of the State Bar of Wisconsin says civil rights groups have turned to means outside the law to make progress because they have lost confidence in their ability to obtain their rights through legal processes.

"Any time that any groups lose confidence in the rule of law, we all suffer," Francis J. Wilcox of Eau Claire told the bar's annual convention Thursday.

Frustration Experienced He said civil rights groups were an example of the frustrations experienced by minority groups and ill advised persons who become helpless in legal matters imposed by laws and government regulations. Organized labor went through a similar period, Wilcox said.

Bar members were urged by Wilcox to make greater efforts to inform the public that legal help is available. He proposed the appointment of a study commission to take up the problem.

No Action Taken The convention did not take immediate action on the request.

However, it voted to ask the board of governors to form a committee to study what Wilcox had called "the growing problem of the impact of specialization."

He said it was getting more difficult for one man to serve the multiple needs of a client.

Lyall T. Beggs of Madison was scheduled to succeed Wilcox as president today.

Blame Fixed For Failure To Disarm

Goldwater Named As Member of Belligerents

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

DISARMAMENT: Sen. Joseph S. Clark today blamed a belligerent congressional minority—and he included specifically Sen. Barry Goldwater—for blocking the road to complete and general disarmament.

This "boisterous belligerence in foreign policy," led by a self-perpetuating few, "is a constant drag to our efforts to wage the peace," said Clark, a Pennsylvania Democrat.

They rally against nay treasury, "no matter how minor, with the Communist world," he said in a speech prepared for delivery to the General Assembly of United World Federalists.

Clark called upon advocates of disarmament to take "issue with the military-industrial complex and all those who, like Sen. Goldwater and many a Democratic senator, as well, pursue a belligerent line in foreign policy."

Goldwater, the front-running contender for the Republican presidential nomination, was the only member of Congress named by Clark in his speech.

TAXES: Dr. Raymond J. Saulnier, chief economic adviser to President Dwight D. Eisenhower a decade ago, has called for a halt to "the Kennedy-Johnson expenditure explosion."

Saulnier charged in a Republican panel report issued on Thursday that many of the President's projected spending reductions are either "of doubtful practicability" or stem from "bookkeeping devices."

Johnson has used more of these bookkeeping devices "than any other administration in history," said Saulnier, a professor of economics at Columbia University, in the Republican Critical Issues Council report.

WARREN COMMISSION: Marina Oswald testified again Thursday to the presidential commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and, a source close to the commission confirmed, was questioned about a report that her late husband threatened to kill Richard M. Nixon.

The source declined to reveal what answers the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald gave when questioned about the report and a second one that she had blocked an attempt on Nixon's life by locking Oswald in his room.

Mrs. Oswald refused to discuss her six-hour testimony and her attorney, William A. McKenzie, shielded her from newsmen's questions, even those she seemed disposed to answer.

Kennedy was murdered last Nov. 22 while riding in an open car through the streets of Dallas. Nixon had visited the city the day before, the day of the reported locked-room episode.

Federal and local authorities are convinced Oswald killed the president. Oswald subsequently was slain by Dallas nightclub operator Jack Ruby.

Priest Raps Cardinal on Racial Issue

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A priest accuses James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of gross malfeasance in office and says he has written the Pope asking for the cardinal's removal.

The Rev. William H. DuBay accused the cardinal in a letter failing to speak out in the racial question. Father DuBay first made the charge in Ramparts, a Catholic journal for laymen.

"Cardinal McIntyre can continue to say that there is no racial problem in his archdiocese," the article said. "An inflexible statement. No one who is in touch, who reads, who hears believe Romania won't break away from the Soviet Union and other Communist countries—or follow the Yugoslav model. But they say that disagreements are tenser than at any time since Romania became Communist in 1947."

Raw Materials Romania probably is the richest of all East European Communist countries in raw materials. She has Europe's largest oil production outside the Soviet Union, and gold, bauxite, extensive wood supplies, methane gas, water power, uranium ore and salt.

For years, most of these raw materials went to other Communist countries.

In 1960 Gheorghiu-Dej decided on a large-scale plan of industrialization. Because Romanians could not get the first-class equipment from the Soviet bloc, they started trading their products in the West, and began buying industrial plants in West Germany, Britain, France and Italy.

Partisan Elections for Milwaukee Suggested By County Chairman

Will Initiate Request at Wisconsin Convention

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS the property tax was begun in William Riggins, the Milwaukee County Democratic chairman, plans to ask the party's state convention to include a platform plank calling for partisan elections for the city of Milwaukee.

Riggins said Thursday night he intends to appear before the convention's platform committee to urge that the non-partisan elections in the state's largest city be abandoned. Under partisan elections, candidates run with party identification.

Democrats will hold their state convention in Milwaukee June 19-20.

Riggins said state legislation applying only to Milwaukee would be required to implement the change.

Partisan Elections Partisan elections, Riggins said, would insure a more unified city administration. "There is always a group of people who become a clique, whether in a political party or not, and I think we should identify them," Gov. John W. Reynolds told a meeting of Marinette County Democrats at Marinette Thursday night that Wisconsin commands a new position of leadership in social progress because of its program of property tax relief for the elderly.

He said the plan attracted much attention at the annual governor's conference earlier this week in Cleveland.

Property Tax "The property tax is the most regressive tax we pay," Reynolds said, "and our attack on ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—Britain's Beatles arrived in Adelaide today for a concert and ran into a welcoming mob that broke through police cordons three times to surround the rock 'n' roll quartet's car.

Vernon Struck Named to Top Ag Co-op Post

Milo K. Swanton's Successor Takes Over Duties Aug. 31

Vernon C. Struck of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture has been appointed executive director of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture cooperative, Truman Torgerson, council president and Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative general manager, has announced.

Struck will join the council of agriculture staff June 22 and will take over the top executive post on the Aug. 31 retirement of Milo K. Swanton.

Struck will be the second man in council history to hold the post. Swanton has served the council as executive secretary since 1937.

Duties Outlined

As the council's executive director, Struck's work will involve the general field of cooperative endeavor, including improvement of business practices, building better member and public relations, following legislation of concern to cooperatives and farm marketing programs, as well as responsibility for coordinating and assisting the council's dairy section marketing programs.

Struck was born in Milwaukee in 1925 and grew up on a Dodge County dairy farm. He took his vocational agriculture training at Mayville High School and holds bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Wisconsin in agricultural economics, marketing and statistics.

Struck has had 13 years experience with the State Department of Agriculture. He has served as staff assistant to the state statistician, information division.

Visits Egypt

In 1963, the economic research service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture selected Struck to spend three months in Egypt to evaluate Egyptian agricultural data collection techniques and to determine long-range market potential for U.S. farm products in Egypt.

State Milk, Crop Prices Up; Meat, Poultry, Eggs Down

The value of farm products, cents less than May last year, sold by Wisconsin farmers increased slightly from a year ago, but still the index of prices for products sold in May was the second lowest for the month since 1957, according to figures released by the State Department of Agriculture.

The index of prices received for products sold in May was 240 per cent of the 1910-14 average — unchanged from April but 1 per cent above May last year. Wisconsin's index of prices paid by farmers at 309 per cent of the 1910-14 average, held close to the record-high of May last year.

The slight rise over May last year in prices received by Wisconsin farmers resulted from higher milk and crop prices offsetting lower prices for meat animals, poultry, and eggs.

Beef Cattle Prices

While hogs sold in May for $14.10 a hundredweight, or 20 cents above a year ago, beef cattle prices averaged $14.50 or $1 lower. The beef cattle price was lower with decreases of $2 for steers and heifers and 60 cents for slaughter cows. Prices received for calves averaged $24.10 a hundredweight, or 60

Lamb prices averaged $20 a hundredweight — up $2.50 and the highest for the month since 1959. Sheep prices averaged $4.80 and were 70 cents above a year ago.

Prices received for milk of average test sold by Wisconsin farmers in May averaged $3.30 a hundred pounds — seven cents more than May last year. This is the highest price for the month since 1961.

Fog prices averaged 25 cents a dozen in May — 3 per cent below May last year and the lowest price for the month since 1959.

The boost in crop prices compared with May last year came primarily from increases in corn and hay prices.

Junior Leaders Direct Dairy Poster Contest By Sherwood 4-H Club

SHERWOOD—Junior Leaders were in charge of a dairy poster contest conducted by Sherwood Wide-Awake 4-H Club last week. Posters will be displayed in local business places this weekend. The winner will receive an award.

Paula Thiel is in charge of the annual fry out, July 7 at the Hilard Brantmeier home. She is being assisted by Mary Stumpf, Gregory Kozlowski and Sharon Thiel.

Demonstrations were given at the June meeting by Kathleen Mertens, Carol Kiefer and Richard Erickson.

Waupaca, Winnebago Are Certified

Waupaca and Winnebago counties are included in the latest group of 15 Wisconsin counties to be declared certified brucellosis-free by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

There are now 56 brucellosis-free counties, according to Dr. A. A. Erdman, chief state-federal veterinarian, of the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture.

Other counties to be certified are Barron, Brown, Chippewa, Clark, Dodge, Dunn, Manitowoc, Oconto, Polk, Rock, Rusk, Taylor, and Washington.

To acquire the brucellosis-free status, all herds of cattle in a county either have to be included in at least three consecutive milk ring tests, or a blood test within the 18-month period prior to certification.

When the certification is started, the herd infection rate must be 1 per cent or less, and the cattle infection .2 per cent or less. All infection must be removed by the time the certification work is completed and submitted for approval. This means that all known infected herds must have been retested and released from quarantine, and all suspects disclosed by testing within the 18-month period preceding certification must be retested until the titer is stabilized, receding, or negative.

New Weapons for War On Flies Are Available

Economical Back-Rubber for Dairy Cattle Displayed at Experimental Farm

Wisconsin dairy farmers have finally go untreated much of the some new weapons available this year for use in their annual battle against flies. Persons attending the Grassland-Dairy Field Day at the University of Wisconsin Emmons Blaine Jr. Experimental Farm near Lake Mills, June 2, saw the latest fly control devices in action.

An economical, easy-to-construct cable back-rubber for controlling flies on dairy cattle attracted a lot of attention at the field day, according to Ellsworth Fisher, University of Wisconsin insect control specialist. The self-treating back-rubber uses a new insecticide called ciodrin.

Fisher explains that ciodrin was available last summer, but only in limited amounts. This year farmers should find the product readily available on the market. The back-rubber uses a mixture of one per cent ciodrin in a light oil base.

Important aid

The insecticide is registered for use on the milking herd and should be an important fly control aid, Fisher says. Ciodrin applied with the back-rubber also will be useful for controlling flies on dairy heifers which normally go untreated much of the summer.

Another new fly control measure is the Vapona strip which is registered for use in the milk house. The strip creates a vapor that is deadly to most flies. One of the Vapona-treated strips will control flies in a 1000 cubic foot enclosed area and probably will remain effective an entire summer.

Other mechanized fly control measures displayed are a walk-through fly treatment device, automatic barn foggers and portable electric barn foggers.

In addition to the dairy exhibits in the farm building area, visitors saw the latest commercial forage harvesting equipment in action. Machinery manufacturers demonstrated mowers, conditioners, choppers, self-unloading wagons and blowers.

Field demonstration plots showed weed control in small grains, small grain varieties, forage grass varieties and field insect control measures.

Erosion Prevails Despite Efforts at Stockbridge of sod waterway projects and Schwalenberg said fish and wildlife pond requests have been numerous.

Referring to the slides Schwalenberg said, "You can see there is still a lot to be done to control erosion."

County Agent Orrin Meyer said that no longer is agriculture broad and diversified with farmers raising many kinds of grains, sugar beets, having orchards, keeping bees, making maple syrup and selling wood.

"Farming has changed tremendously over the last 20 years," he said, pointing out that farmers must now practice specialization and commercialization.

"Step in Right Direction" "Banding together to improve efficiency, proves you are stepping in the right direction," Meyer told the watershed group, the only organization of its kind in Calumet County. It was formulated about six years ago.

Meyer said much could be gained by attending meetings, reading agricultural magazines and articles, and keeping records.

Technology could also be applied to small farms, Meyer stressed by lead feeding of dairy cows, using herbicides, insecticides and fungicides and always planting certified seed and applying fertilizer.

Bus Tour

The watershed group was host to District 10 Area Supervisors last year, providing a tour of the area by bus and an aquatic tour on Lake Winnebago. The group toured Calumet County last July observing conservation practices.

A field trip was planned at the meeting for mid-July, with a tour of the Kimberly-Clark Lakeview Mill, Neenah. Meyer will be in charge of tour arrangements and Raymond Ecker in charge of transportation.

All officers were reelected. They are Raymond Ecker, president; Ernest Franzen, vice president; Arthur Daun, secretary-treasurer, and Gilbert Ortlepp and Earl Hemauer, trustees.

Wisconsin's Big Cheese Becomes a TV Star

Soon some 10 million of the nation's television viewers will be able to see and hear the story of Wisconsin's famous big cheese, now on exhibit in the state's pavilion at the World's Fair.

Columnist and commentator Bob Considine and Roland C. Behle, managing director of the Wisconsin Cheese Foundation — sponsor of the over 17 ton cheddar — have put together a film which will be seen on a national television series "For Your Information" narrated by Considine.

Public Service Messages

The series will then be distributed nationally. More than 600 television stations will be offered the film for public service programming, according to Behle. Producers of the film guarantee that at least 300 stations — an audience of about 10 million viewers — will see the show in the next two years.

The complete film premiered

June 10 at Denmark, Wis., where the record setting cheese was produced last January.

One of the appeals of the show is that the program includes public service messages from such organizations as heart, cancer, muscular dystrophy and similar agencies.

The Wisconsin cheese story includes an interview with Behle and Considine, as well as excerpts from the color film "The Golden Giant" produced by the Wisconsin Cheese Foundation for showing to schools, service clubs and other interested groups.

The film is intended to inform people of the dairy prowess of

State Tobacco Crop Worth $5 Million in '63

Wisconsin tobacco growers received over $5.5 million for their 1963 crop, according to Francis Haugh, State Department of Agriculture marketing specialist.

How to win at shadow tag

As a youngster, perhaps you too enjoyed the game of shadow tag. What fun it was in the late afternoon, when shadows were long and easy to catch. As we recall, there was a way of winning at shadow tag. As long as the one who was "it" was kept between you and the sun, he never got close enough to your shadow for a tag. If the real you got caught, so did your shadow.

We got to thinking about this game the other day, during a discussion of circulation and how many different ways there are to "determine" the size of a circulation audience for advertising. You can multiply units of circulation by units of people and maybe you will get reader audience.

Studies and surveys can produce age, sex, income, and all sorts of other factors which, when multiplied by units of circulation, might give you other kinds of audience figures.

No matter how it is figured, a circulation audience can never be more reliable than the circulation figures from which the shadow is projected. While the size and shape of the shadow changes in the light of varying points of interest, the child at tag and the circulation under study remains the same.

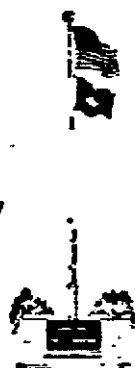

We believe it is our obligation, as a seller of the commodity of advertising space, to provide you with complete and accurate circulation figures. We believe in full disclosure of circulation facts, based on uniform standards, permitting close examination from any point of interest. We believe, further, that such facts and figures should come not from us or our agents, but from an independent, objective circulation measuring and reporting service.

That's why the Audit Bureau of Circulations was organized 50 years ago, and why more than 4,000 advertisers, advertising agencies, and publishers support this voluntary, self-regulatory effort today. That's why we are ABC members.

Come to think of it, we never were much good at shadow tag. Just ask to see a copy of our latest ABC report—it will let you tag the real us.

alent of 22 million pounds of milk, or the annual production of over 2,500 average Wisconsin dairy cows.

Alp said the butter was delivered to a buyer in Rotterdam for distribution principally to shiplines.

"John gets a special price because of his uniformly high quality," Wing pointed out. He said the Rotterdam buyer, eager to see for himself, visited the Wuethrich plant recently while he and Alp were there.

Promotional Efforts

The Rotterdam trade center was established by the Farm Bureau in the fall of 1958. It was strictly a promotional effort the first two years; no attempt was made to consummate sales.

"We found the idea was no good unless it was followed by sales," Alp remarked.

"The trade center functions on the philosophy that the answer to the farm problem is in the marketplace, not in Washington."

Operations are financed entirely by Farm Bureau funds and commissions. The Farm Bureau doesn't take title to goods, but engages in negotiating sales between United States agricultural suppliers and European importers.

Consumers of the goods may live anywhere in Western Europe, the United Kingdom, and as far away as Hong Kong.

$50,000 in Peaches

Last year the trade center negotiated a $50,000 deal on fresh South Carolina peaches. They were sold in stores in Finland, Denmark, Rotterdam and England.

"They made a big hit. People bought them by the peach, and ate them walking down the street like kids with ice cream cones," the trade director said.

The trade center claims credit for introducing fresh winter carrots in Europe, only storage carrots having been available up to then. Shipped principally from Texas from February through April they were sold primarily in the United Kingdom, with some going to the Scandinavian countries.

"We handled over $100,000 in onion sets this year, mostly from Michigan but some from Wisconsin, too. We've sold apples from various states, soybeans from South Carolina, strawberries from New Orleans and Texas, mint oil from Oregon, flour from Kansas," Alp counted off.

"Plenty of Potential"

There's plenty, he emphasized, of potential. Western Europe is prospering, people are eating better, and enjoying variety with their bread, potatoes and spaghetti.

"We are working on melons out of Texas, and sweet corn-on-the-cob, which has been unknown in Europe," Alp said. "New markets are being opened constantly."

He thought there were excellent possibilities in the whole milk concentrate developed by the University of Wisconsin, and now being market tested. It should catch on as a convenience food, he said.

While in this area he and Wing also stopped at Shawano, to discuss chances for sales of milk powder and perhaps butteroil from Consolidated Badger Co-operative.

Wisconsin Holstein beef has been sold in France. Alp feels there are fine prospects for American fresh meat prospects in Europe despite the competition from other meat surplus countries.

Problems Exist

But there are problems.

"The willingness on the part of Europeans to buy exceeds our ability to supply many times," Alp said.

He told about receiving a sizable order for nonfat milk powder, but despite urgent telephone calls across the Atlantic, no seller could be found.

"The plants here were too busy supplying the U.S. government, because our price support is higher than the world market for this product," he explained.

"Our biggest barrier to trade is our government. The government owns the excess cotton, wheat, corn, dairy products, most of the tobacco. There are government interests all the way through because of control and subsidy programs."

Higher Prices

One solution, of course, is to induce Europeans to pay higher prices than our supports. Alp pointed out that Wuethrich has been able to get a special price because of his record for high quality and square dealing.

He said 99 per cent of the sales handled by the Rotterdam trade center have originated there — with the buyer.

"It should be the other way around."

If American agricultural producers and processors want to take advantage of new opportunities in foreign trade, Alp stressed, they must be able to supply large quantities at uniformly high quality.

Big Terms

"They talk in much bigger terms than we do. A man walks into our office and asks for a bid on 40,000 metric tons of corn, and we can't supply him."

The Farm Bureau occupies space in the Rotterdam Wholesale Building, a large, modern structure erected since the war. Alp has three people in the office, and a legal counsel in close reach to advise on contract details.

Most of the business in the United States is transacted by telephone, then confirmed in writing.

"The European trader operates fast, and usually wants an offer within 48 hours," Alp said.

Part of the Farm Bureau's service, he noted, is to make sure the buyers are able to pay and are reliable. He said they have turned down some proffered orders.

"We are the first and only farm organization in the United States," Alp declared, "to seek world markets."

Expayers Call for One State School Board Expenditures Survey Ends of Higher Education Unit

GREEN BAY — A single effort to direct state post-high school education "operating independently and with its own" and abolishing of all existing boards was called for at a regional workshop session of the Wisconsin Public Expenditures Survey.

The position was adopted at a conference of members of 13 northern Wisconsin taxpayers' groups in the Hotel Northland, who voted the present coordinating committee on higher education has 15 of 19 members representing boards of regents, educational systems and is paid by these institutions.

A workshop session followed, and a noon meeting of Philip Hendrickson, Green Bay vice president of the taxpayers' group, that expansion of the University of Wisconsin and state colleges be coordinated until a coordinated policy is agreed upon.

Brewer, a survey research associate, followed this with a for specific action from the coordinating committee.

Firm Policy

Hendrickson, noting more than half of the state general budget already is going for education and predictions are doubled college enrollments, said taxpayers must support the establishment of a firm over-all higher education policy and that we halt

Further expansion of more institutions until this is realized."

Hendrickson said a four-year university branch is envisioned for the Green Bay area, another is being agitated for in Racine-Kenosha, more two-year university and college branches are being planned, and vocational schools are warning about encroachment in their area.

Competition has reached a point that "would really seem a war has been declared between the state college regents and the University of Wisconsin as to who does what," he said.

'Real Mess'

"It is evident we are headed toward and, as a matter of fact, are in a real mess which not only is costly, but which well can sap our resources needlessly, strain them without reason, while higher education bigwigs jockey for position and prestige perhaps to wind up with an educational product in the last analysis that is not good," Hendrickson said.

Brewer said the coordinating committee, while it is supposed to plan integrated educational growth at the least possible cost, is, "in effect, a mutual back-scratching society with various segments loyal to their own institutions and the non-institutional members outnumbered by more than three to one."

Brewer said the enacting law for the committee gave it only limited assignments, including presenting a single budget estimate, followed this with a receiving separate requests of the university, state colleges, and the vocational system.

Only a 'Scorekeeper'

"That is exactly what it does. It adds all the requests together without modification and presents them to the governor. The committee has not been a policy-maker. It merely has been a scorekeeper," Brewer said.

Brewer said an example of growth independent of coordinating committee action was the creation by the university regents of provost positions for the Madison campus, the Milwaukee branch, and, last month, the extension division.

"The show of strength with a third provost for the university is a straw in the wind indicating the direction for the next university push, the extension centers," he said.

Driver Education View of Fatal Accident Gives Vivid, Potent Lesson to Reporter's Son, 16

BY EDWARD VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — You're out on a warm summer night with a 16-year-old son. You're attempting to teach him to drive, cautioning him to slow down at intersections, take corners properly, come to a full stop for arterials, be on the alert for traffic signs, look out for children who might dart from behind parked cars and the many other things a driver must learn.

Suddenly the sound of sirens fills the air. You see ambulances and police cars, red lights flashing, racing to you know not where. Instinctively you follow and suddenly come upon an accident scene.

Your son brings the car to a halt behind many others of the curious who have arrived before you. Somehow you, as others, sense tragedy. You walk to where a car is lying on its top in a field. Some distance from the crashed vehicle lies a body, covered with a blanket. Ambulance attendants load a second body into the emergency vehicle, but being a reporter, having seen many other accidents, you also know this unknown person has little chance of survival.

Unforgettable Lesson

You look toward the crowd being pushed back by more police and see your son. You wonder what is going through his mind. He is learning to drive and comes across this. A tragedy of the road, but a lesson which probably will never be forgotten.

Somehow you think, "perhaps this tragedy will so impress your son that it may in the future prevent a similar tragedy to you or another family and it may make the boy a better driver." A horrible way to learn caution in driving, but one which no amount of talking or preaching could match.

You listen as details of the accident are explained by the first officer on the scene to other officers arriving to assist with the heavy traffic. The officer is shaken, sweat stands out on his face despite a wind which should make him feel cool.

Moves Automatically

He moves automatically following accident procedures. You can hear him as he moves among fellow officers. "What a waste." "What a shame." "Why did this have to happen?" "Why, no sense to the whole thing."

Investigation reveals the two in the car had failed to stop for an arterial several miles down the road and were observed by the officer. In line of duty he attempted to halt the car, but the driver decided he would outrun the police.

Suits Being Planned for Astronauts Different System Of Cooling Will Be Installed

BY HAROLD R. WILLIAMS
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A suit of mail-order house long underwear riddled with 144 tiny water pipes could prevent astronauts from getting "dishpan red" all over during a space flight.

Manned Spacecraft Center engineers are developing a water-cooled undergarment to replace the oxygen cooling system now used in space suits.

In past flights, astronauts have emerged from the space suit dripping with perspiration, looking as if they had spent hours in a dishpan.

Cooling System

Refinements in the gas cooling system for Gemini and Apollo space suits haven't helped much. The heavy garments and their high pressurization, are sweat boxes.

Research into conductive cooling for space suits has been led by a young British doctor, John Billingham, who first saw the possibilities of such a system as a Royal Air Force flight surgeon.

He now heads the environment physiology branch of the Manned Spacecraft Center, where experiments have been going on for a year.

Until May 20, tests here were conducted with store-purchased, long underwear with the plastic water pipes sewed in the material.

Suit Experiments

A factory-made suit built to specifications was put to use in an experiment with engineer, Gil Freedman wearing the garment and walking a treadmill for one hour at a time.

He wore the water-cooled underwear under a cumbersome and heavy Mercury space-suit. Despite the brisk walk and the heavy clothing, his skin temperature stayed at 82 degrees, nine degrees below normal, which was satisfactory.

Dr. Billingham said that if Freedman had been using the oxygen system, his skin temperature would have been 97 degrees.

Heat Transfer

Conduction heat transfer is one of four methods by which the human body can exchange heat with its environment.

Working on this theory, Dr. D. Mc Kerslake, head of climatic physiology, RAF Institute, Aviation Medicine, Farnborough, England, determined that different parts of the body had different skin temperatures.

The deep body temperature is 98.6 degrees, while skin readings range from 94 degrees at the head, chest, abdomen, back and buttocks to 83 degrees at the hands and feet.

Drek Burton, an English human engineering expert, set to work using these values to make a water-cooled space suit. The suit today is basically his design and this week he published a technical paper.

Appleton Health Commissioner Notes Progress

Dr. James Laird has expressed appreciation to the board of health for appointing him Appleton health commissioner.

At the same time, Dr. Laird said he was impressed by the operation of the health department and the activities included in its program.

"I would say considerable progress has been made by the health department in this city," Dr. Laird said. "Everyone who played a role in it should be commended."

Dr. Laird, who succeeded Dr. Marvin S. Kagen as commissioner on June 1, said he was surprised to see the progress in establishing a well staffed health department, complete with laboratory.

The health commissioner said Mrs. Carol Kemps, R.N., city health nurse, is conducting an excellent program.

At the request of Dr. Laird, the board said it would ask the local hospitals to inform new mothers that the city nurse is available for post partum calls.

Dairy Month Calls Attention To Wisconsin

State Dominant In National Milk Products Picture

June Dairy Month, an annual promotion by the dairy industry of the nation, will again call attention to Wisconsin's dominant role in producing fine dairy products, according to the State Department of Agriculture.

During 1963, Wisconsin's 2.1 million dairy cattle produced 18,399,000,000 pounds of milk—enough to give every man, woman and child on earth ten glasses of milk. This torrent of milk and its by-products produced $598 million dollars for the economy of the state, or 53.5 per cent of its total farm income.

The 1963 milk production again placed Wisconsin at the top of the states, and was responsible for 14.5 per cent of the nation's total. In cheese, the state remained at the top, producing an estimated 700 million pounds, or 42 per cent of the nation's output.

Butter Production

Wisconsin ranked second in butter production with 308,180,000 pounds, and furnished 21 per cent of the nation's supply.

The state produced 23,880,000 gallons of ice cream, only 3.4 per cent of the nation's output, which ranged the Badger State ninth in this respect. Put a little more popularly, this would be enough to furnish each man, woman, and child in North and South America with a large ice cream cone.

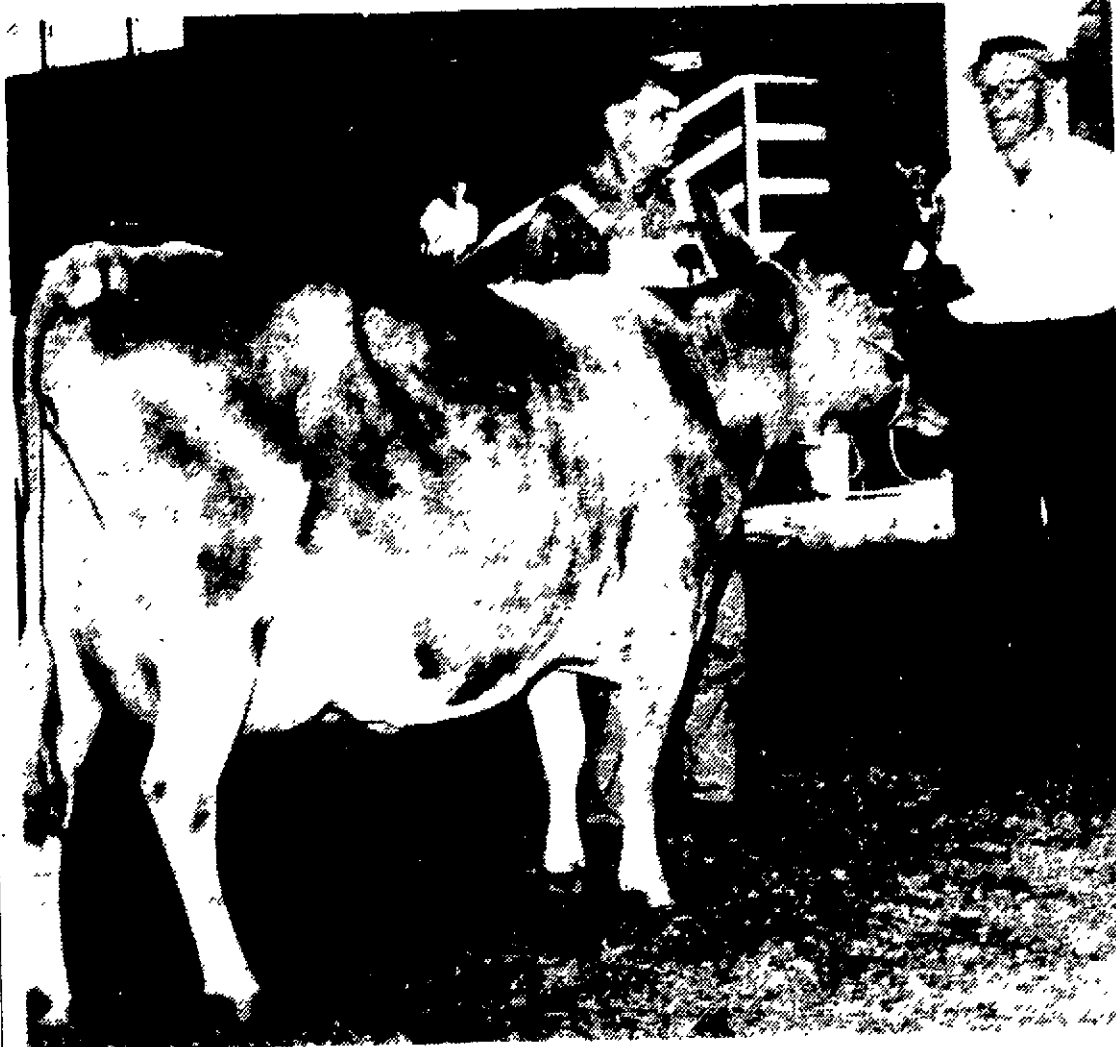

June Dairy Month is not only of great economic importance to the dairymen of Wisconsin, but it also has great nutritional value to the consumers of the state and nation, since 85 per cent of Wisconsin's milk is marketed outside its borders.

Robert Thayer, chief of the marketing division of the State Department of Agriculture, says June Dairy Month calls attention to the fact that milk and milk products are your best food buy for healthful and economical living.

Teachers Studying Outagamie Soil Types

Miniature Structure Samples Prepared by Educators for Use in Classroom Work

Seven of Outagamie County's predominant soil types were subjects of a study tour Thursday by county vocational agriculture teachers and representatives of United States Department of Agriculture affiliated agencies.

Purpose of the tour was to prepare miniature soil monoliths. The miniature soil samples are a scaled down version of core sample. Samples of soil proportional in depth to the layers under study are mounted in containers in the order they occur.

The monoliths will be used by the teachers in soil studies by their students.

Marvin Beede, University of Wisconsin Soil Specialist, and Don Niendorf, a representative of the state soil conservation committee, conducted the tour arranged by Vern Geiger, county Soil Conservation Service head.

Soil types studied were Kewaunee, Oshkosh, Poygan, Manawa, Shiocton silt, Leeman sand and Onaway.

Schools represented were Bear Creek, Hortonville, Shiocton, Vocational School and Wrightstown. The FHA cooperative extension and SCS sent representatives.

Farmers Find They Must Change Methods to Stay Competitive

Farmers in northern Wisconsin are feeling pressure to either change their ways of farming or quit. For the north's smaller farmers, these aren't easy alternatives because change is difficult, and many don't want to quit.

Northern farmers who want to keep on farming are asking what they can do to stay in business. They're also asking what farmers can do about the over-productivity which often results from application of the new machines and farming methods.

It's impossible to answer these questions very optimistically. As average farm sizes continue to increase, some farmers are going to be squeezed out, says Roger Johnson, University of Wisconsin agricultural economist. The small farmer, if he's going to stay in business, has to increase the size of his farm and apply new technology in order to better his position.

Little Capital

However, not all technology is aimed at big farmers, Johnson points out. Some improvements — such as silo unloaders, large machinery, and freestall housing — often cost too much for small farmers. Others require little capital, and a farmer gets his money back in a year. These technologies include things like fertilizer, new crop varieties, herbicides, insecticides and new management techniques such as lead feeding dairy cows.

Unfortunately, use of the less expensive technology will probably keep the small farmer competing for only a relatively short time. Farmers are racing to produce more for less, and no farmer can afford to lag too far behind when other farmers are getting bigger and more efficient.

Small northern farmers can expand, according to Johnson, although it may be difficult. Expansion usually means borrowing money, and too often the small farmer is reluctant to borrow. Perhaps he finds it more difficult to borrow, because he has fewer assets to borrow against, particularly in northern Wisconsin where land values are low.

Even though it's difficult, Johnson would suggest borrowing in order to expand where the risk is good. According to a research study completed in Wisconsin, some farmers do especially well by expanding on a rent basis. They made faster gains in net income than farmers who tried to expand by buying land outright.

Some farmers would prefer to avoid the need for expansion by ceasing to compete in adoption of technology. Actually, some farmers would be better off if this were done, says Johnson. But putting an end to competition would mean group controls on production, and loss of freedom to compete. Some farmers would rather bank on competing better than the average.

When talking about putting an end to technological competition, we also have to remember that our agriculture is competing with agriculture in other parts of the world. If we stop competing, we could fall behind other countries in efficiency, and thereby lose exports to them. In fact, we'd also encourage imports of some products from more efficient countries.

But how can the small farmer compete better? Johnson would begin by staying well-informed on agricultural developments. Read farm magazines, he suggests. Attend extension meetings and field days to pick up ideas for improving your operation.

Keep good records of your farm business. Records tell your present efficiency, and point to areas where there is potential for improvement. For example, if you know your yields per acre for various crops, you can compare them with the yield potential on your soil types.

Spend time planning. A little figuring will help decide whether a given innovation or investment will increase your income.

Finally, be willing to take the risk involved in borrowing money in order to adopt new methods. If you're informed, know your business and have planned, you should hit a good batting average on the risks you take, he said.

Calumet County 4-H Contest Set

Pay Boosts Voted For Congress and Federal Employees

Judges, Cabinet Members
Included in House Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fatter pay checks for most federal workers were in prospect today after House passage of a pay raise bill that includes $7,500-a-year increases for members of Congress.

By the surprisingly large margin of 243 to 157 the House reversed its earlier defeat of a similar bill and cleared the way for Senate action on the $533-million package of pay boosts.

It includes $7,500-a-year raises for judges, Cabinet officers and top federal executives, and increases ranging from 22.5 per cent at the top to 1.6 per cent at the bottom for 1.7 million government workers.

Other Increases

The average letter carrier would get a 5.6 per cent boost, of $325 a year and the average government typist and file clerk would get a $310 a year raise. The bill is expected to be one of the first called up in the Senate after it completes action on the civil rights bill, and no difficulties are foreseen in its passage.

A number of considerations prompted the House to pass the pay bill this time after defeating one, 222 to 184, last March. The size of the proposed congressional raise was scaled down from $10,000 a year to $7,500 and it was made effective next January, instead of this year, making it easier for members to vote for it.

Most Primaries Over

Of major importance in the view of the bill's backers, however, was the fact most state primary elections are now over. Last March the primaries were still to be faced and too many members felt it politically unwise to vote raises for themselves and then face the electorate.

Strong support from President Johnson also helped put the bill over this time, as did a powerful lobbying effort by the postal unions.

An amendment designed to eliminate the pain of voting for its own pay raises in the future was adopted by the House Thursday. It was offered by Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., and would provide automatic increases for Congress whenever the top Civil Service grade gets a raise.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Rep. William Van Pelt of Wisconsin and the state's four Democratic members voted with the majority Thursday as the House approved a pay raise for 1.7 million federal workers, including members of Congress.

Also voting for the plan were Rep.'s Johnson, Kastenmeier, Reuss and Zablocki.

Opposed were Republicans Byrnes, Laird, O'Konski, Schadeberg and Thomson.

Shastri Tries to End India-Pakistan Rift

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri has launched an effort to settle India's long, bitter dispute with Pakistan over Kashmir.

In his first broadcast since succeeding the late Prime Minister Nehru, Shastri said Thursday night "a great deal of patience will be necessary" to settle the differences, but added that the West German Federal Republic and India and Pakistan were linked by common history and traditions.

Shastri also appealed for harmony between India's Hindu majority and Moslem minority.

Spears 2 Teachers To Death, Burns 29 Other Persons

COLOGNE, Germany (AP)—A crazed man who fatally speared two women teachers and seared 28 children and another teacher with a flame thrower died Thursday night after he was shot by police, then guillotined down poison.

The worker, Walter Seifert, 40, a tubercular lathe operator, was shot in the pelvis as he tried to flee from the school. Before police could subdue him he swallowed the contents of a small bottle of insect killer.

Doctors who treated Seifert for tuberculosis had classed him as mentally unstable but harmless. Before he died he told police he was fed up with the way physicians had treated his illness and "wanted to take revenge."

Russia and East Germany Sign Treaty of Friendship

Nikita Avoids New Crisis by Stopping Short of Peace Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union and East Germany signed states, disarmament, and the signing of a peace treaty by the avoided stirring up a major crisis with the West by stopping short of a World War II peace pact.

Premier Khrushchev said the treaty would be an important contribution to "the peaceful regulation of the German question."

His announcement to the pact appeared couched in cautious terms.

Ulbricht's Statement

But East German Communist chief Walter Ulbricht, following the Soviet leader on the dais at a Kremlin meeting, said the treaty provides that East Germany and the Soviet Union will regard isolated West Berlin as "an independent political entity, which in no way is part of the West German Federal Republic and to which the competence of the West German Federal Republic does not extend."

Ulbricht had argued for a peace treaty. Speaking prior to the signing, he said: "There is no other way of insuring peace now than by normalizing relations between the two German states."

The Soviet premier, his voice hoarse from speaking, said the treaty would be an important contribution to "the peaceful regulation of the German question."

Time Sought For School Site Report

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Kenosha citizen's committee today asked the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education for additional time to refute a staff report finding that the Green Bay area should have priority in the construction of a new four-year state-supported institution of higher learning.

The coordinating committee was scheduled to take up for action later today a recommendation of its plans committee for establishment of a new school in the Fox River Valley area in 1969 and another to serve the Racine-Kenosha area beginning in 1971.

David Rodli, chairman of the top planning agency in state higher educational programs, reported that its members have received appeals from Kenosha for an opportunity to challenge the staff report holding that the Fox Valley area educational needs are comparatively greater than in the southeastern corner of the state.

The general outlook is favorable, however, for the Green Bay area project priority, observers believe.

If the coordinating committee endorses the Fox River Valley plan today, the next step will be a request to the 1965 legislature for planning funds for the new institution.

President and Erhard Plan to Review Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany flew into Washington today to review the German and Berlin problems with President Johnson in the light of the Soviet-East German friendship pact announced in Moscow earlier today.

Erhard declined immediate comment on the pact, saying: "I must see the text first. I cannot make a political comment knowing only what the headlines say."

Responding to the welcome extended at Andrews Air Force Base by Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, Erhard said of his upcoming talks with Johnson:

"We have no concrete decisions to make, but it is opportune to draw a balance and coordinate our positions."

Also on hand at the airport was German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder who arrived Thursday and had two meetings with the Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Speaks at Maryland Convention

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania today announced his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination "to offer our party a choice."

The 46-year-old governor and former congressman has been saying for almost a year that he would accept only a "sincere and honest draft."

In an 11th-hour speech arranged only Thursday night for the Republican State Convention of Maryland, Scranton declared the Republican party "is in danger if we let an exclusion-minded minority dominate our platform and choose our candidates."

Gives Party Choice

"I have come here to offer our party a choice. I reject the echo we have thus far been handed, the echo of fear, or reaction, the echo from the never-never land that puts our nation backward to a lesser place in the world of free men," he said.

Jack Conmy, the governor's press secretary, said the governor had been mulling over his decision for several days.

Scranton "Stirred"

Reminded that Scranton said previously he never felt "stirred" before about any presidential aspirations Conmy was asked if the governor was "stirred" now.

"He's stirred," Conmy replied. Conmy said Scranton made up his mind finally at 8:23 p.m. Thursday.

As to what impelled him to make that decision, Conmy said: "You'll have to get the specifics from him."

Asked who Scranton talked with after the decision was made, Conmy replied: "Name any big name and they would be it."

Opposes Goldwater

Asked specifically about Eisenhower, Conmy said he thought Scranton talked with the general but couldn't say for certain.

The announcement by Scranton will put him in direct opposition to Sen. Barry Goldwater. The Arizona Republican presently holds a commanding lead in the battle for national convention delegates.

A key factor in Scranton's decision, sources said, was Goldwater's vote on Wednesday.

Just a year ago, Negroes were carrying their protests into the streets of Birmingham. The city was on the brink of a racial explosion. Reiman Morn covered the demonstrations in June, 1963, and the disorders that broke out in September when the Birmingham schools were integrated. In this story, he takes a look at Birmingham 12 months after the troubles began.

A new bank employs Negro and white tellers. Of its 14 security officers, 9 are Negroes. While the racial situation in Birmingham is far from settled and the possibility of demonstrations still exists, there is much in the record of this city to make

4 Killed, 112 Hurt in Dominican Blasts

Ammunition Dumps Blow Up;
Santo Domingo Areas Damaged

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Explosions rocked military ammunition dumps across the Ozama River from Santo Domingo through the night.

Officials said four persons were killed and 112 wounded. Flames set by the blasts still raged today preventing firemen, troops and police from getting close to the dumps.

The explosions caused damage in the city. Donald Reid Cabral of the government junta said three and possibly five dumps at the army's 27th of February barracks were destroyed. He said investigators were trying to determine the cause. There was an unofficial report the blasts were started by fire in a powder magazine.

Several Shots Heard

Persons in the area heard several carbine shots just before the first explosion. It was believed these were fired by sentries giving the alarm for the fire.

The government put all hospitals and private clinics in the capital on an emergency footing.

U.S. Ambassador Visited

Bennett visited the government house and it was understood he offered help in relief work. Col. Luther Long, the U.S. Army attaché in Santo Domingo, said the number of dead and wounded was "sizeable" but he could not say how many there were.

The blasts broke glass doors and windows throughout Santo Domingo, and dozens of persons received minor injuries from flying glass, wood splinters and pieces of masonry.

The city was on the verge of panic. In the confusion there was no possibility of an immediate check of the extent of damage or casualties.

On the main street of Santo Domingo, not one store escaped damage. Police and troops stood guard in the commercial districts to prevent looting.

Civil Rights Foes Abandon Amendments

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern foes of the civil rights bill have virtually abandoned hope of winning adoption of any additional amendments of consequence.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., leader of the Dixie forces, said today that the bill's supporters evidently are not going to take any more amendments. This was confirmed by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the bill's floor manager. He said in a separate interview that there might be some technical changes but nothing of substance.

"I don't think we have much chance on any of our amendments," Russell said, but he added that the Southerners will continue to offer them to put the

Educator Supports Two-Year College In Clintonville Area

Says 'Comprehensive' School Needed for Students of Region

CLINTONVILLE — This community and its surrounding area need a "comprehensive" two-year liberal arts college, a state educator said here this week.

Dr. James Albertson of Wisconsin State College - Stevens Point added that a proposed campus college branch also should offer terminal training as well as vocational or technical training for adults and high school graduates.

The educator made his remarks at a meeting of the Clintonville-Shawano Two-Year College Campus committee. The committee discussed Dr. Albertson's suggestions and passed a three-part resolution to be sent to the state college coordinating committee deciding where proposed two-year college should be located.

Resolution

In its resolution, the committee said:

—It agreed with Dr. Albertson that the kind of institution he described was what the Clintonville-Shawano area desired.

—It believes the state "is primarily responsible for post-high school education, and therefore, should re-evaluate its support" for this kind of school.

—State laws should be changed so school districts can combine to undertake such a project. Under present statutes, only a township, city, county, or a combination of these, can combine.

Another Meeting Set

Committee members were Dr. Loren Swanson, Bonduel, chairman of the joint committee, Superintendent of Schools Charles Hubb, Arthur Gast and Mayor Emil Juedes, Shawano, and Mayor Frank Sinkewicz, Superintendent K. O. Rawson, Lyle Harrison, Harland Kirchner, Irving Burdick and Woodrow Smith, Clintonville.

Doctor, Son Escape Injury In Plane Landing Accident

WEYAUWEGA — A Delavan doctor and his 16-year-old son escaped injury about 4:20 p.m. Thursday when their light plane struck a fence during a landing in a cow pasture 10 miles south of here.

Dr. R. E. Knecht had landed the four-place airplane in an eight-acre field and was attempting to turn the plane when one of the landing gear wheels struck a hole and a low fence. The mishap occurred in a field bordering State 49 on the Arlyn Bauer farm in Wausau where the plane was estimated at more than $2,500.

A witness said the plane first touched down and then became airborne again before touching down a second time. The distance from where the plane touched down the second time to the fence was estimated at 300 feet. Trees bordered one end of the field and utility wires the other end.

Planned to Visit Friends

Dr. Knecht said he had planned to land in the field to visit friends nearby.

When the wheel of the plane struck the fence, the landing gear collapsed. One wing along with the underside of the plane was extensively damaged. Damage to the plane was estimated at more than $2,500.

Before the plane is removed from the field, the accident will be investigated by the Federal Aviation Agency.

CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville's Junior Chamber of Commerce is planning to sponsor a local entry in the Waupaca County Fair Queen Contest, according to information released Thursday.

The decision was made at the invitation of the Waupaca County Fair Association which feels that a queen contest would add "greatly to the activities and attractiveness" of the fair.

Money May be Burned

$16,000 in Cash Object of Quiet 'Treasure Hunt' on Outagamie Farm

A little-published "treasure hunt" by sheriff authorities for several weeks has been searching for upward of $16,000 in cash believed hidden somewhere on an Outagamie County farm.

Sheriff authorities began the search late last spring after a retired county farmer was committed to the Winnebago State Hospital. The man has remained mute since his confinement and has refused to discuss where the money has been placed.

Authorities were called when it was learned the man had taken money, believed to be his life savings and money he made from the sale of his farm, and hidden it or burned it.

80 Acres Annexed To City of Brillion

Utility Will Get $82,000 Back At New London

Refund Is Result Of PSC Decision On Power Rates

NEW LONDON — A refund in excess of $82,000 is expected soon by the New London Utility Department from Wisconsin Michigan Power Co., according to L. K. Thomas, manager.

The refund is the result of a decision by the Federal Power Commission, (FPC) which applied anti-discrimination provisions of the federal act to reject a rate increase to the city for its electric rate which was put into effect in August, 1962.

In addition to the refund for the increased rates paid by the city for the past year and one-half, Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. was ordered to pay 6 percent interest on the amount due.

Others Affected

Besides New London, there were eight other municipal utility customers affected by the decision.

This is the first electric rate-making proceeding involving sales to municipal or cooperative customers in more than a decade.

The city of New London has been fighting the rate increase along with five of the other cities involved. Although the rates to the city have been increased the city has never passed the rate increase on to its customers, but has been absorbing the difference.

At last Tuesday night's city council meeting, the council voted in favor of a resolution enabling the utility department to borrow $50,000 for construction of a new well. It is now conceivable it will not be necessary to borrow this money if the refund is received soon, Thomas said.

Stockbridge Wants Recreation Leader

Sponsors of Summer Program Trying to Find Replacement

STOCKBRIDGE — The chamber of commerce here is searching for someone to take over the summer recreation program.

Don Gosz, who had been coach at the high school and on whom the chamber was planning to take over the program, resigned officially Thursday. He reportedly will take a position as a teacher-coach in a Fond du Lac school.

Members of the chamber board of directors are trying to get someone so the summer recreation program, which was slated to start Monday, can get underway.

Consider Solution

One solution to the problem which the chamber is considering is that a member or members take over a different phase of the program. Included on the program are baseball for two school age groups, swimming, dances and softball for girls and boys.

Sylvester Penning, treasurer, is taking over the softball program which will involve two teams from Stockbridge and one each from Hilbert and Chilton.

The program was to be sponsored by fund raising efforts of various community groups in-

Officials Expect New Land to Develop as Residential Area; Will be Added to Third Ward

BRILLION — Some 80 acres, expected to develop as a residential area, has been annexed to this city.

The area involved extends from Main Street south to the town road, then east to a town road running north and south, then north along the town road to the north boundary of Horn Park.

Subject to all city ordinances, rules and regulations, the new area will be added to the Third Ward.

Formal action annexing the land was taken by city council Monday night.

City officials said the land will be developed into a residential subdivision.

Sewer, Water

A resolution was adopted authorizing agreement with Chicago and North Western Railway Co. for the city to construct a sanitary sewer, a water main and a storm sewer in the vicinity west of the Spring Creek bridge in the city, and at the point where these facilities will cross the tracks.

Construction will be on the company's right-of-way and under the track west of the bridge. A license must be obtained and an agreement made with the railroad company.

The ordinance committee has given the assignment of drafting a change in the building ordinance so a building on a corner lot in residential areas will have a 25-foot minimum setback both front and side yard. Before a building permit can be issued for more than one building on an outlot, a plat must be submitted of the lot in question.

Tax Share

City Clerk Lynn Williams reported the city had received $42,215 for income tax apportionment due at this time.

A letter from Western Lime and Cement Co. about tower buildings at the lime kiln site was read. Williams was authorized to cite the ordinance covering hazardous buildings to the company. Council members feel the buildings are unsafe, and should either be repaired or removed.

The State Board of Health notified the council it had approved the water main extension from Petty Street north approximately 205 feet.

A proposal of James Schneider for $41 for hay and the cutting of weeds on the city-owned Mulhaney property was accepted for 1964. The land was acquired when the sanitary sewer line was laid from the north.

William Rogers Tells Candidacy For Assembly

Kaukauna Democrat To Seek Re-Election In Second District

Outagamie County got its first Democratic Party Assembly candidate today with an announcement by William Rogers, Kaukauna, that he will seek re-election in the new Second District.

Rogers, 33, was elected to the Assembly in 1962 when he defeated the incumbent Republican in the old Second District, Marvin E. Babbitt, Seymour, by a 1,087 vote majority.

When the Supreme Court reapportioned Wisconsin Assembly districts early in May, it placed the towns of Buchanan, Freedom, Kaukauna, Oneida, Osborn, Seymour and Vandenberg; the villages of Combined Locks, Kimberly and Little Chute; and the cities of Seymour and Kaukauna in Outagamie's Second District.

GOP Candidates

Two men are in a contest for the Republican nomination in the September primary; they are Lawrence D. Beck, a Kaukauna insurance salesman, and Norman Austin, Oneida town chairman and county board supervisor.

Rogers said today "the Supreme Court's realignment of the Second District helped me out personally. It almost insured my chances for re-election."

"My victory margin in 1962 would have been twice as much as it was with the precincts now included in the Second District," he said.

"Besides," Rogers added, "I didn't carry a single one of the precincts which were taken from the Second and placed in the new Third District."

Pressing Problem

A member of the Assembly Agriculture Committee, Rogers said, "Outside of those normal governmental problems such as taxes, I consider the problem of our mentally retarded the most pressing problem our national, state and local governments face today. I will continue to gear my efforts toward finding a solution to this problem."

Rogers, a member of the Kaukauna City Council and a former school teacher, attended St. Paul High School in Little Chute and was graduated from Kaukauna High School. He was a member of St. Norbert College in 1958.

Harris was arrested Saturday. He is a veteran, married and has five children, four sons and a daughter.

School District Valuation Up Over $500,000

Equalized Figure
At Brillion Caused
By City Annexation

BRILLION — The equalized valuation of Brillion Public School District is now $20,475,500, school board members were told Monday evening.

This represents an increase of $588,500 over last year's tax base, brought about partially by a newly annexed residential area north of Brillion.

Ralph Anderson and Harlen Krahn have filed papers seeking election to the board. Vacancies are being created because Harrison Weaver and Earl Pitzer, present board members, are not seeking re-election.

Resignations from teachers: Mrs. Violet Laack, Charles Krueger and Edward Rozmarynoski were read and accepted. A contract was signed for Mrs. Janice Hoekstra to teach vocal music.

The problem of securing medical attention at the foot ball games for injured players was discussed but no workable plan evolved.

Harold Jentink discussed salaries of contract bus drivers for extracurricular trips. A rate of $1.25 per hour from the time of leaving until return to the school, with a $1.50 meal allowance if away from home over a meal hour, was granted.

Sunday Services Slated by Pastors At New London

City of Brillion Adds 80 Acres To Boundaries

the city affairs committee the proposal of Allen Kluge, Brillion, for a bid of $300 for labor and material for painting the exterior woodwork of the city hall, was accepted.

Council members decided against providing curb and gutter for residents on Roselawn Drive in the new Parsons addition. They said there are not enough dwellings on the street to warrant it.

Sonny's Welding and Repair, route 1, will be engaged to install the firemen's drill tower at the city water tower for a price of $560. The drill tower will be built under the water tower, using the framework of it for the framework of the new tower.

Alan Behnke was appointed to fill the unexpired cemetery commission term of Lawrence Lewis Sr., who died recently. The term expires May 1, 1965.

Council members have decided to dredge Spring Creek for a distance of approximately three miles from the Manitowish River to the city limits on the west. Cost of the project will be about $15,000, which will be borne equally by the city and Town of Brillion. The project will be completed this year. Action was taken because of a drainage problem from the city limits to the Manitowish River through a swampy area. The dredging is to provide a place for the stream to run.

Town of Brillion officials and council members discussed extra territorial zoning on the fringe areas of the city. Both groups are attempting to work together to set up a mutually agreeable and beneficial zoning arrangement for such areas. Town officials wish to give the matter more study with their attorney and will meet later with city officials.

Council members decided to carry $50 deductible collision insurance on the street sweeper, fire truck and five-ton truck for a six months premium of $86.50. This will be added to the city's policy with the Reedsville Brillion Insurance Agency.

Stock Market In Early Drop

Sperry Rand Sold Heavily During Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — Sperry Rand was sold heavily as the stock market declined early this afternoon following a three-day recovery. Trading was slow over-all.

Sperry was unloaded on a series of large blocks — 17,000 shares, 15,000 and 10,900 shares — and remained under continuous selling pressure.

The selling, brokers said, was triggered by news that the highly-regarded Dr. Louis T. Radar had resigned as president of Sperry's Univac division to join General Electric. GE stock traded about unchanged.

The market as a whole was in a slow, irregular decline. Gains and losses of key stocks regained mostly from fractions to a point. Some groups fought the downtrend. These included retails, aerospace issues and drugs.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .5 at 303.7 with industrials off .6, rails off .1 and utilities off .3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .31 at 810.94.

Polaroid spurted 4 points or so and IBM was up a point. Sears Roebuck advanced more than a point with other retails up fractions.

American Telephone sank

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate and U.S. government bonds showed little change.

'Freedom Summer' Ahead

Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi had a mild argument at the recent Governors' Conference over the "freedom summer" project of various civil rights groups. Hatfield wanted assurance from Johnson that Oregon students going to Mississippi to help in the voter registration drives would not be abused. Johnson thought they would be better off if they stayed home.

The "freedom summer" project is bound to cause some unrest and very likely some violence, particularly in the heavily Negro populated districts of Mississippi. The Justice Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation are currently trying to gather evidence for a suit in one county concerning alleged intimidation of Negroes attempting to register. A voter registrar in that county is already under an injunction issued last spring by a federal judge. And in areas where as high as two-thirds of the population are colored, whites are bound to be resentful and fearful. As one warned about the northern students, "all these people coming down here this summer. God help them! Because if He doesn't, He may have to bless them. They're going to push Mississippi just a little too damn far one of these days."

We have not always been sympathetic with college students treks into the south to take part in sit-ins, freedom marches and other civil rights demonstrations. Quite often they could do as much good toward ending prejudice in their own northern communities in what may be less publicized but equally important ways. Day after day hard working efforts to improve education in slum areas, medical help for the poor and ignorant of all races, and even the simple kindnesses to neighbors do not often make the front pages but they help to better race relations.

However, the right to vote is probably the most important of all civil rights and one of the most serious to be curtailed. The long and regrettable history in the south of so-called literacy tests for Negroes attempting to register and the even more despicable threat of violence and retaliation has to end. And that is what the "freedom summer" project is all about.

Students working on the project must take care, however, that they do not encourage opposition to local laws and customs and then blithely return to their campuses in the fall leaving southern Negroes to bear the burden of resentment and retaliation. This is not an easy assignment, as Governor Hatfield indicated.

Another City Hurdle Removed

Final approval of the Memorial Drive project, including the widening of the Prospect-Memorial intersection, can be considered in no other light except as a wise decision on the part of the Appleton Common Council.

We do feel that aldermen and other city officials were exposed to undue harassment but that is part and parcel of the occupational hazard of being a public servant.

It is quite obvious the controversial project was blown way out of proportion and alienated many people because of the Barnum-type tactics of a few who would attempt to turn meetings of municipal officials into a three-ring circus.

There can be no excuse for the rude conduct displayed by a few members of the audience when the hearing on the street improvement was held. It is unfortunate in this day and age when full grown adults have to be requested to conduct themselves as ladies and gentlemen.

The intersection project was planned and talked about for two years and now something is going to be done about alleviating the chronic bottleneck of traffic coming off the bridge and entering the central city.

It might be noted that once the city approved the Memorial Drive plans, the alderman of the ward was instrumental in getting the special assessment rate cut substantially for his constituents who will be paying $2 a foot for property zoned residential. Had it not been for his effort and the cooperation of fellow aldermen, the rate would have been much higher.

This and several other "pluses" were lost in the controversial shuffle. And the attempt to incite residents of the entire city into opposing the street project was a complete fizzle, and rightly so.

The record will show that more than 20 Common Council and committee actions were taken on the project—all of them consistent—over the past 18 months, which included getting the state to pay 85 per cent of the cost.

The Memorial Drive question has now been settled and the burden is on the city and state to do a first-class construction job and assist residents along the project route in every way possible.

It is also significant that at the close of last week's lengthy hearing the attorney for the most strenuous objector to the project stated publicly that his client had received a fair hearing and expressed appreciation to the council for giving him a chance to present his case.

The Unfortunate Riots in Korea

The current riots in Korea, led by student demonstrators in protest against alleged police abuse and corruption, might well lead to the overturning of still another regime in that strife-torn and partitioned country. Students led the demonstrations against Syngmann Rhee and he hasn't been back to his homeland since. But, although Korea still has a long way to go toward economic health, the present violence is especially unfortunate.

President Chung Hee Park was duly elected last fall in an election remarkably free of violence or corruption. Although he had come to power through a military coup, he had put his leadership on the line with voters and, from all reports, honestly won their support. But his government has not been able to make enough economic strides fast enough. It is this continued poverty undoubtedly that has led to the present riots as much as charges of corruption which abounds in Asia. Nor does the proposal to resume normal relations with Japan really seem like an issue although the long standing hatreds and fears certainly can be used to the disadvantage of Park's government.

Park has declared martial law in Seoul and has closed schools. But he obviously has attempted to keep restrictions at a minimum to restore order.

Korea desperately needs a stable government if it is ever to progress economically. The United States continues to send a great deal of both military and economic aid but the pit seems to be bottomless. The visions of riches for all unfortunately blinds many Koreans into assuming that wealth accompanies a democratic government. But they have not yet given President Park's regime time enough to prove or disprove itself.

Such uprisings are ably used by the Communists to their own advantages. This is not to say that such uprisings, when abuse and corruption are very apparent, should not occur. But patience and a realistic attitude is needed in Korea toward the vast problems of changing a society's living standards not by a generation or two but by a couple of centuries.

People's Forum

Kaukauna Man Disturbed Over Visit to Appleton's Council

Editor, Post-Crescent:

On June 3 I had the honor and privilege (and I say this with tongue in cheek) of attending the City Council meeting at the Council Chambers, City Hall, Appleton. I went primarily because I was interested in the outcome of the Memorial Drive and Prospect Avenue project.

I was basically interested in the property of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mares because I am a lover of antiques and historical sites. However, after sitting at the meeting and hearing other people's views on the subject, I began to sympathize with other people that this project affected, and I began to see other aspects to this street project. I do mean sympathize with these people, because they could have just as easily addressed the Fox River at midnight as the City Council for all the good that it did them.

I should explain at this time that I am not a resident of Appleton. However, because there is 85 per cent of state funds in this project I felt I had a right to sit in on this meeting to see the outcome.

I have one suggestion to the residents of Appleton. Attend the city council meetings. See the people that you voted for at work. It is a real experience. You owe it to yourself and the community as a whole. See your city government in action. You may wonder why you voted for the people that you did.

I am not writing this in defense of Mr. and Mrs. Mares alone, although I believe that they were done the greatest injustice, but for all the people that presented their views and were not heard (or so it seemed). Needless to say, the City of Appleton will have a wider Memorial Drive and they will have a new intersection at Memorial and Prospect, in spite of what the people want.

I won't say that this intersection isn't needed (although I question it) nor will I say that all this land isn't needed for this intersection. What I would object to is the manner in which this was accomplished.

Petitions, arguments, reasons and talks against this project were useless. There was not one discussion between the council members on the pros and cons of this project. It seemed there was a decision made on this project prior to the meeting, making all arguments useless. I thought that government was a tool of the people, usually doing what the majority wanted, or at least giving it consideration. They must have misinformed me when I studied government in school.

I believe the greatest injustice was done to Mr. and Mrs. Mares. No, I will go further than this, this injustice was done to all people in Wisconsin, the nation and the world that are interested in history. Not only now, but future generations. To my knowledge, the school children of Appleton want this home to stay intact as a part of Appleton's history. But of course, they aren't of voting age, so we can't consider their opinions, can we?

I believe that this home is a part of Wisconsin's heritage and I don't believe that the City Council of Appleton has the sole right to judge a property such as this, especially when there seemed to be a motivation other than the importance of this intersection to the city. What this motivation, if any, could be I can't answer but it is hard to believe that not one person in a group as large as the City Council is interested enough in the possible tourist attraction and the historical importance of this home to vote against this project that may or may not solve the traffic problem.

Does Appleton have a master street plan? Are they working towards an ultimate goal, or merely fixing here or there and hoping that the end result will be satisfactory and workable? Remember, there are many, many people outside of the City of Appleton that come to town to shop and conduct business that are as unhappy with the traffic problem as the residents. How much city and state money is going to be used for useless expansion?

I certainly hope we can take another look at this issue and I sincerely urge the people of Appleton to attend the council meetings. (It's better than TV).

I also thank the Post-Crescent for letting me express my views and opinions on this project.

Robert J. Kurowski
Route 1,
Kaukauna

(Editor's Note: Because Mr. Kurowski's visit to the Council meeting was apparently his first contact with this matter, some of his conclusions do not square with the record. That record needs to be cited briefly for the information of persons reading his letter.

(The Appleton council and various committees have been studying the Memorial Drive project for several years and the June 3 meeting was only the final one in a long series at which city officials considered this matter. Hence further lengthy discussion was not indicated.

(Plans for the widening of Memorial Drive, including modernizing the Memorial-Prospect intersection, have been developed by the State Highway Department in cooperation with city traffic engineers over a considerable period of time. Appleton is in the process of preparing a master street plan and the Memorial Drive project is linked to this plan.)

Remedial Action More Likely Now on County Board Apportionment

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—In view of what has gone before, it is difficult to perceive how the State Supreme Court can deny the request of two Waukesha County residents for reapportionment of county boards of supervisors to achieve equality of population representation.

Wyngaard

One of the fundamental facts about county government, certified again and again in law and in Supreme Court opinions, is that it is a creature of the state and in effect an administrative agency for state-provided services.

The Wisconsin court has ruled in a precedent-making opinion issued only a few weeks ago that the idea of population equality in state legislative apportionment is a constitutional right, enforceable by its action in the default of legislative performance. It would appear to be an inevitable corollary that the court can and will assure population equality in the representation machinery in the counties, as branches of the state government.

TIME NEEDED?

At least one of the attorneys representing the respondent counties in the oral arguments before the court a week ago appeared to accept the probability of the court's right and the court's will to intervene, when he recalled that the tribunal in the legislative case granted the lawmakers a generous period of time to attempt a legislative redistricting act.

Because the present court is not eager to give the appearance of assuming authority that belongs in the legislature, it may be presumed that it will follow its original course in the legislative apportionment argument, by announcing that it will take action if the lawmakers after a reasonable time show that they can't, or won't.

In any event, it may be guessed that after years of inconclusive argument about the unequal arrangements in the organization of county boards, there is a good chance for remedial action.

As it happens, the legislature is now in the process of "studying" county board organization and the clearly documented trend for urbanization of the population that has aggravated the inequities of the traditional system of providing supervisors on county boards for governmental units, rather than persons. The legislative study commission that is being formed was not the result of the threat of court action—at least not directly. It was a kind of pacification gesture toward those citizens' groups that had sponsored county board reorganization bills in the 1963 session, only to see them routinely rejected as they have been routinely rejected many times before.

GOOD FAITH?

Counsel for respondent counties in the Supreme Court action also cited that legislative study mandate as they argued against a court-imposed county board reapportionment law. The legislature is earnestly concerned about the problems of county representation, the lawyers said, as shown by the creation of this study group and its instructions to report to the 1965 session. Give that study commission time to consider the matter, they said in effect, and give the next legislature time to consider its recommendations, and reform will be achieved in the regular way, through the legislature in which the lawmaking authority resides.

Such an argument would be more persuasive, however, if those lawyers had ever turned up in the legislature itself to ask for reform. It would be more effective if there was any showing in the long record of legislative disputes that there is any genuine desire in the legislature for change, or any conviction of the need.

It would be more persuasive also if the first appointments to the study commission as just announced by the Legislative Council contained a majority of objectively interested members. They did not.

Strictly Personal

Ritz Doesn't Mean What Ritz Intended

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Everyone knows how the names of real persons have turned into common nouns in the English language—Captain Boycott and the Earl of Sandwich and Lord Derby and Judge Lynch and M. Martinet and Charles Mackintosh and Col. Bowie and Madame Pompadour and Amelia Bloomer and the Marquis de Sade.

Harris

In looking through the new book, "The Ritz of Paris," a biography of the famous hotel by Stephen Watts, I had forgotten that in our own time Cesar Ritz has joined this rare company of immortals—because "ritz" and "ritzy" have become so much a part of our language, it is assumed that they preceded the name of the hotel.

Not so at all. When Cesar Ritz opened his hotel a little more than 60 years ago, there was no such word; it was only a proper name, belonging to his family. Since that time, as Watts points out, "it is unarguably the only hotel name which has passed into common usage in many languages, dropped its capitalized initial, become a noun, spawned an adjective, and found its way into most English language dictionaries."

Most names that are converted into nouns fill some verbal need—boycott and lynch, for instance, have no true synonyms. But "ritzy" made its way despite many such synonyms as "classy," "grand," "chic," "swell," and so on.

Everyone over 40 remembers Noel Coward's "Children of the Ritz," and Harry Richman's "Putting on the Ritz," and P. Scott Fitzgerald's story, "The Diamond as Big as the Ritz." We have Ritz Crackers and Ritz Cleaners and Ritz Theaters, and a Charles of the Ritz (no relation), and hundreds of commercial enterprises in most cities bearing the name "Ritz." (Even, Watts informs us, a "Ritz Thrift Shop," surely the ultimate in paradox.)

Yet the irony in the situation is that Cesar Ritz did not intend to found a grand or lavish hotel. "It is not the biggest," says Watts, "the grandest, most expensive or most venerable hotel in the world; it is simply the most famous."

It is small, as hotels go, with only 210 rooms. It has no telephone for floor service, no television sets, and will not even permit radios. There is nothing like a "lounger" in the main lobby. The president has no office, but lives at the top of the hotel. It is run personally, eccentrically, uneconomically, and the rates are not excessive.

What, then, gave the Ritz its special cachet, and turned it into a synonym for poshness and luxury? It was the taste, the tact and the pride of its owner, who hated hollow ostentation and everything glossy. As his son once protested, "The Ritz is not ritzy."

And another remarkable thing about California—it's the only place where Goldwater runs uphill.

Too bad Pierre Salinger and George Murphy can't both be Senators. The joint could use a team like that—a piano player and a song-and-dance man.

Gloomy thought for the day: The political experts who organized the stop Goldwater movement are now planning to try to stop Margaret Chase Smith.

Congressmen can complain as much as they like about the shortage of coins, but it hasn't yet stopped one of them from putting in his two cents worth.

Looking Backward

July 4 Convention Lampooned

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for June 23, 1964.

The Democracy have issued a call for a convention to be held at Chicago on July fourth next. It will be composed of peace men and war men, loyalists and traitors, although Copperheads and Knights of the Golden Circle will greatly predominate.

Wood, Long, Cox and Vandincham and the whole crew of those who, in the interests of the rebels, have been opposing the Government and the war since its commencement will be there. A fit assembly for the purpose for which it meets — "anybody" to beat Lincoln with!

It is the first time, we believe, that an attempt has ever been made to desecrate the day by prostituting it to any political purpose, although this seems worthy of the actors.

The Clevelanders met to nominate J. C. Fremont, and accomplished their work. The Baltimore delegates performed the work they were sent and instructed to do by the people. They had no other thought or purpose.

The Chicago conglomerates will meet with no unity, no sentiment, no candidate, and with but one purpose in mind — to circumvent the people and defeat their candidate.

To effect this their cry will be for peace by war men and war talk by peace men. Copperheads will preach liberty and their opponents to call for the reestablishment of slavery.

New officers of Pilgrim Fellowship of First Congregational Church, Appleton, were Beverly Olson, executive chairman, Karl Goldbeck, business manager, Beryl Chady, director of religion, James Pirie Jr. secretary, and Shirley Miller, social chairman.

Albert Wickesberg and Miss Audrey Lemmer were to reign as king and queen of the annual dinner-dance of Appleton High School Band.

Miss Rose McHale, Chilton graduate of St. Catherine College, St. Paul, was to direct the swimming and handicraft programs that summer at Catholic Girls Camp at Loon Lake.

Area students graduating from St. Norbert College that June included Jerome Meier and Joseph Rohlinger of Kaukauna, David Nolan, Manawa, Patrick Clark, New London, and Robert Hugo, Chilton.

10 YEARS AGO

Named judges for the annual Kaukauna Huck Finn Day were Jug Girard, Kaukauna, Robert Lloyd, Appleton, and Mrs. Harold Snerka, Neenah. William J. Fondow, Appleton, was among the ROTC cadets at Western Michigan College who was to attend summer camp maneuvers at Fort Lee, Va.

Novice licenses were awarded to six members of the Appleton YMCA radio class. They were Richard Lembcke, Wayne Hillegas, Frank Kreiling, Kenneth Smith, Roger Reitter and Leonard Breitung.

Officers of Apollo Flier, Theta Rho Girls Club, included Marjorie Miller, re-elected president, Mary Halverson, vice president, Diana Laehn, secretary, and Nancy Miller, treasurer.

against ending the filibuster in the Senate on civil rights legislation. Scranton long has been an outspoken advocate of civil rights.

Goldwater voted against cloture on the filibuster, saying: "I have never voted for cloture on anything." He has said he hopes to be able to vote for the bill, but it would depend upon its final form; it would have to be amended.

In announcing his candidacy, Scranton would join a field of GOP contenders that includes Goldwater, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, and former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen.

Rocky's Stand Unchanged

In New York a spokesman for Rockefeller said the governor will not change his position "one bit."

Michigan Gov. George Romney, an outspoken opponent of many of Goldwater's views, has said he is not seeking the nomination, but will campaign for a strong platform along lines of the 1960 platform.

He had no immediate comment on Scranton's plans.

Such a Scranton announcement will be a reversal of his long-stated position that he was not seeking the nomination, but would accept a "sincere and honest draft." Last Sunday Scranton modified his draft statement slightly to say he would be available for the nomination if a majority of the convention delegates wanted him.

The Scranton action capped a week of activity that began last Saturday when Scranton met with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in Gettysburg. Eisenhower urged Scranton to make himself "more available" for the nomination.

Scranton flew to Cleveland Sunday morning for the Governors' Conference prepared to announce he would welcome support from GOP moderates. He did not intend, however, to campaign. Then shortly after his arrival, Scranton received a telephone call from Eisenhower who, disturbed by press reports, said he did not want it to appear that Scranton had been tapped by Eisenhower for the nomination or that he was part of any "stop Goldwater" movement. Reported Previous Stand Visibly shaken, Scranton went on television and reiterated his previous position. This was the opposite of what had been expected.

Without the expected rallying point, Scranton backers, Goldwater opponents and nonaligned GOP forces broke into confusion.

Eisenhower was back in the picture Thursday. He told The Associated Press he wanted a wide-open Republican National Convention to stir the party's and nation's interest.

He disavowed a role of either pulling strings for—or cutting the ground from under—Scranton.

At stake in the Maryland convention are 20 delegate votes to the San Francisco convention. It was reported in Baltimore that Goldwater's total commitment ranged from 4 to 10.

Scranton is chairman of the 64-vote Pennsylvania delegation. All but three are committed to support him. The other three have indicated they favor Goldwater.

Navy Magazine Prints Secret With Pictures

BY FRED S. HOFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Pentagon was caught with its censorship down today.

Throughout last winter's Cyprus crisis—and in the current flareup as well—the Defense Department refused to say whether U.S. 6th Fleet units had moved into position off the island.

"We do not discuss movements of units within a fleet area," is the Pentagon's stock statement.

But the editors of an official Navy publication evidently had not heard.

The June issue of Naval Aviation News carried a chatty little item which spoke of a task force "standing off Cyprus since hostilities erupted earlier this year."

Topping the item was a picture of a landing craft crammed with men, bound for a visit to the giant nuclear-powered carrier Enterprise in the background.

committee recommendations. "If demonstrations begin again this year, Negro leadership will find it very difficult to say one word of caution in the face of the mayor's treatment of the recommendations," said Dr. Lucius Pitts, president of Miles College.

But Arthur Shores, a respected Negro attorney, said the committee "at least gives us a chance to air our grievances."

Some whites also criticize Boutwell for lack of action.

Says the mayor, "We're rendering more services of all types now than before. I feel we're gaining the confidence of the people."

White businessmen who work to ease racial tensions still get the midnight phone calls, threatening them, their wives and children.

Hotels, motels, restaurants, remain segregated. Only token integration took place in the schools.

So the picture is a montage of light and shadow.

The situation may deteriorate again. But as of now, Birmingham is a bright spot in the whole picture.

WINDSOR, Wis. (AP)—Lawrence J. Spronach, 14, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Spronach, died Thursday of internal injuries received when struck by a chunk of stone and earth as he played in a gravel pit.

He was knocked the remaining distance down the 15-foot high wall.

Lawrence, his brother, Dale, and two companions had been playing in the small gravel pit, located next to the Spronach home on the edge of this Dane County community.

the delegation of which he is chairman.

As it now appears, however, Goldwater may have sufficient first ballot votes to give him the victory if he can pick up the delegates of a few uncommitted states like Wisconsin. As a result there will be strong solicitation of the Wisconsin delegates and their alternates.

Speculation that at least 15 of the Wisconsin convention votes are secure for Goldwater has been published in recent days in national media, evidently reflecting at least in part the appraisals of the headquarters of the principal national candidates for the nomination.

Party Sources

Wisconsin party sources concur in that estimate and one leading party figure says it is too conservative.

"If I was a betting man, I would bet that Goldwater would receive 20 to 22 first ballot votes from Wisconsin if released under present conditions, and as many as 27 or 28 if it appeared that Wisconsin's vote would be a decisive factor in his nomination," he observed.

Most Wisconsin Republicans believe that former Vice President Richard Nixon would get most of the Wisconsin votes in the event of a collapse of the Goldwater nomination drive, and especially if the Arizona senator would encourage his backers to nominate Nixon. Wisconsin Goldwater backers believe that their favorite would be more likely to endorse Nixon, in the unlikely event of his own defeat, than any of the other aspirants, declared and potential.

Senate on record, even if they get only 20 to 30 votes.

"This is bad legislation, and we are going to give those who are pressing his cup to our lips a chance to make a record," said Russell.

A Southern filibuster against the House-passed bill was shut off Wednesday when the Senate voted 71 to 29 to put its debate-limiting cloture rule into effect.

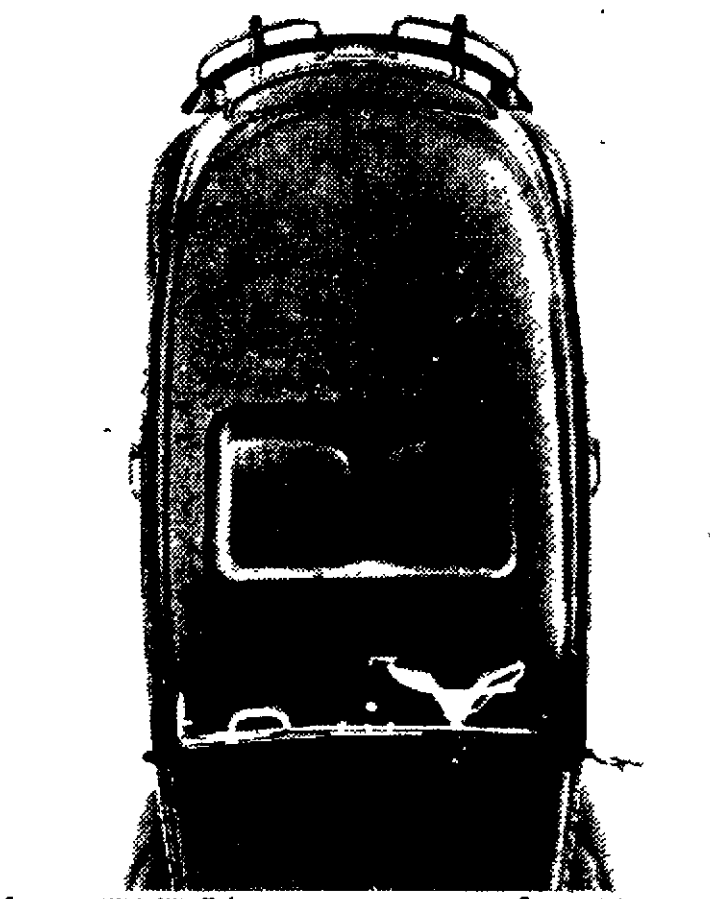

Under this each senator has only one hour to speak on the bill and all amendments.

The Senate acted on 16 amendments Thursday, rejecting all of those not acceptable to the leadership. Humphrey called it "a great day" that encouraged him to believe the bill might be passed even before the end of next week.

"I think we will come out of this pretty much with the package bill we now have," he said.

He was referring to the package of amendments drafted by leaders of both parties and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as a substitute for the House bill. It retains the House bill's basic provisions but puts more emphasis on voluntary compliance and state enforcement in states that have their own antidiscrimination laws.

Confusion Reigns in Ranks of Republicans

Would-be Captains of Politics Stood

By While Two Candidates Were Active

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Gov.

William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania does today what he seems ready to do—tell the country that he will seek the Republican presidential nomination—it will be just one more twist in an already unforgettable week.

And if the public is no less confused after he does, the prime movers in the Republican party—Scranton not excluded—will have to share the blame.

For while Sen. Barry Goldwater was emerging as the GOP's only aggressive leader they were looking more like caretakers than captains. They were sitting back, doing nothing, saying nothing now that Rockefeller, the only top Republican willing to stick his neck out against Goldwater, seemed at the end of the line, although he says he is still in the running.

While Goldwater and Rockefeller were slugging it out in the primaries, there was always the fine chance the two would knock each other out of all consideration before the Republican nominating convention in July. That would leave the field wide open to those would-be presidents who said they'd accept the nomination but would not fight for it.

After Goldwater's California primary victory all but sewed up the nomination for him, they began to wring their hands. They showed concern for the nation and the party but never enough to really do anything about it.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was also concerned but he didn't show any more leadership than the others. He told The Associated Press Thursday his main concern is in seeing an open convention and a platform and ticket that sane to call for war in the time of nuclear weapons, he went on, saying that the bomb that destroyed Hiroshima is now considered a toy and who knows what a 100-megaton bomb would do?

Khrushchev said the United States claims it has enough nuclear weapons to kill each Russian three times. It also says, Khrushchev added, that the Soviet Union has enough nuclear weapons to kill each American once.

"We don't need any more than that," he commented as an audience of 6,000 laughed and applauded.

A man would have to be in would build the party to its maximum strength.

Goldwater Philosophy

He didn't hide his reservations about some aspects of Goldwater's conservative philosophy but, as he put it, he wants to be in a position to pick up the pieces after the convention and help unite the party behind its nominee.

He had said he wouldn't interfere in the selection of a candidate but before the Governors' Conference opened in Cleveland this week he called Scranton and nudged him toward some activity.

Scranton had said he would not seek the nomination but would accept it if drafted. Eisenhower suggested he not be so rigid about waiting to be drafted.

Of all the Republican leaders, Scranton put on the most indecisive and confusing performance. He said one time he could run for the vice presidency on Goldwater's ticket and indicated their views on issues weren't too far apart.

Stops Senator

Gov. George Romney of Michigan said he'd do everything in his power to stop Goldwater but when former Vice President Richard M. Nixon suggested that Romney actively seek the nomination in opposition to Goldwater, Romney wouldn't.

But Nixon who would like the nomination, but says he isn't a candidate, explained that, urging Romney to oppose Goldwater he wasn't really trying to start a stop-Goldwater move although it might have that effect.

There was always the chance of course, that if Romney and Goldwater fought each other until the convention got deadlocked on them, Nixon might have a chance, perhaps his best and only chance, to be picked finally as a compromise candidate.

Running Mate

Nixon said Scranton would be a good vice-presidential running mate for Goldwater, a view which, if it caught on, might erase Scranton from the convention's mind as a presidential candidate at all.

Scranton repaid the compliment by suggesting that Nixon, who had been vice president eight years under Eisenhower, would be just the man to run for the vice presidency again.

If all this adds up to some kind of political chaos, that is what it was. Goldwater? All he had to do was sit back and watch the spectacle.

Blonde wood paneling covers the balconies and choir box. Before, they were a sombre mahogany color. The new floor and the repainted walls and ceilings also are in lighter shades. New stained-glass windows match, almost perfectly, the windows that survived the blast.

The total effect is more cheerful.

Rumors Continue

So is the feeling in Birmingham, to a degree.

The segregationist has not suddenly become an integrationist. But he may have decided it is better to make accommodations than to have more demonstrations and bombings.

Rumors continually circulate that Negroes will begin demonstrating again.

Negro leaders have expressed dissatisfaction with the Community Affairs Committee. It has only advisory powers and they criticize Mayor Albert Boutwell for not acting on the committee recommendations.

"If demonstrations begin again this year, Negro leadership will find it very difficult to say one word of caution in the face of the mayor's treatment of the recommendations," said Dr. Lucius Pitts, president of Miles College.

Grant County Man Announces Candidacy For State Position

LIVINGSTON, Wis. (AP)—Theodore J. Griswold, a Grant County cattleman, announced today he will seek the nomination for secretary of state on the Democratic ticket.

The 43-year-old Griswold, married and the father of five children, is president of the Wisconsin Beef Breeders and Feeders Association and the Wisconsin Polled Hereford Association. He is a member of the State Radio Council and formerly served on the State Farm Home Administration Advisory Committee.

Griswold said he intends to campaign as part of the Democratic team "stressing the programs of the past six years of Democratic administration under Governors Gaylord Nelson and John W. Reynolds." These programs, he said, "have reclaimed state government as an effective tool for the betterment of our state and its people."

Griswold is a farmer candidate for Assembly and the State Senate.

Republican Robert Zimmerman, the incumbent secretary of state, has announced himself as a candidate for a fifth consecutive term.

Scranton a Reluctant, Successful Politician

Career Began in State Department
Final Two Years Like Was in Office

BY JOHN TAYLOR

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gov. William Warren Scranton of Pennsylvania has sought political office on two previous occasions. Both times he was reluctant. Both times he was successful.

Running against heavy Democratic majorities, Scranton won election to Congress in 1960 by 17,000 votes and to the governorship in 1962 by nearly 487,000 votes. Both times he entered the contests only after repeated urgings from party leaders.

His bigger victory came two years ago when he ended eight years of Democratic rule in the executive mansion by defeating former Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia in the governor's race.

Born in 1917, Scranton, 46, was born July 19, 1917, into a family where politics was a daily topic of conversation and where duty was taught.

His late mother, Marion Margery Warren Scranton, was national Republican vice chairman from 1940 to 1944 and Pennsylvania's GOP national committeewoman from 1928 to 1953.

His late father, Worthington Scranton, was not as active in politics as his wife, but he instilled in his only son a deep sense of devotion to duty.

"If you are given much, you owe much," his father once told him.

The Scranton family had been given much. It amassed a fortune after Joseph Hand Scranton of Madison, Conn., moved to the Lackawanna Valley in northeastern Pennsylvania and opened an iron foundry in 1847.

Expanded Interests The family expanded its interests to mining, railroading and banking, and, in the process, gave its name to what became the state's third largest city.

Young William Scranton's early education was received from a handful of private schools and New England boys' academies. He attended Yale University where he was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree in history in 1939.

He left his studies at Yale law school in May, 1941, and joined the Air Force as an aviation cadet. He received his pilot's wings July 3, 1942, and three years later married his childhood sweetheart, Mary Chamberlain.

The union produced four children: Susan, 18; William W., 16; Joseph C., 14, and Peter K., 10.

Air Force Scranton left the Air Force in 1945 with the rank of captain. He later became a major in a reserve unit commanded by Brig. Gen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona senator who is the front runner for the GOP presidential nomination.

After receiving his law degree from Yale in 1946, Scranton became active in business and civic affairs in Scranton. He worked toward bringing new industry to the area where the unemployment rate was high because of the sagging coal industry.

In the last two years of the administration of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Scranton was asked to work for the State Department, interpreting U.S. foreign policy for newsmen. He attended several conferences in Latin America, in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the United Nations.

As Eisenhower's second term in office drew to a close, Scranton was urged by Republican leaders to run for Congress. He at first declined, but finally accepted, saying it was his duty to run.

Swamped Opponent He swamped his Democratic opponent, a two-term incumbent, despite the fact that the state's unemployment compensation law. Although vigorously fought by organized labor which staged a mass march on the capitol, the bill passed.

Scranton had little time in Congress to make his mark, but he earned the label of liberal employment compensation code by voting with the Kennedy administration to enlarge the bring new industry to the state House Rules Committee.

Luci to Serve Milwaukee as Parade Marshal

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Luci Baines Johnson, younger daughter of President Johnson, will serve as honorary marshal of the Fourth of July circus parade in Milwaukee.

Officials received word of her acceptance through the office of Sen. Gaylord Nelson. The invitation had been extended to either one of the president's daughters several weeks ago. Luci is considering enrolling in Marquette University this fall.

The parade, sponsored by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., will include 34 restored circus wagons together with uniformed bands, horses and other animals.

Luci began searching for a gubernatorial candidate and their sights were set on Scranton. Scranton said he was happy in the House and preferred to remain there.

Under pressure from Eisenhower, however, Scranton agreed to run. He had only token opposition in the Republican primary. His landslide victory over Dilworth in the general election immediately propelled him into the national limelight as a presidential candidate.

In his two years as governor, Scranton has had his successes and failures, but his major programs have received approval of the legislative despite the Republicans' narrow margin in both houses.

Expected Surplus Noting a $14.5 million deficit in the budget when he assumed office, Scranton now proudly points to the expectation of a $24 million surplus this year.

Part of this is due to his raising the sales tax from 4 to 5 per cent, highest in the nation although food and clothing are exempt. He used much of the added revenue to give school teachers their first raise in salary since 1957.

The most controversial bill Scranton pushed through the legislature was his reform of the state's unemployment compensation law. Although vigorously fought by organized labor which staged a mass march on the capitol, the bill passed.

Scranton said the state's unemployment compensation code by voting with the Kennedy administration to enlarge the bring new industry to the state House Rules Committee.

Council Lauds State and Eight Communities

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds said Thursday that Wisconsin and eight of its communities have been cited for outstanding accomplishments in the next three months in Outagamie County as the summer 4-H club agent.

The cities are Eau Claire, Madison, Menasha, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Racine, Stevens Point, and Wausau.

The state won certificates of achievement for traffic engineering, public safety education and for traffic safety improvement.

The governor commended those official and civil leaders who took part in "bringing this recognition to safety progress in our state and the honored cities."

But he noted that the 1964 Wisconsin traffic toll probably will reach 400 this week. "We have a long way to go before feeling content in our efforts to save lives, minimize injuries and avoid property damage on our streets and highways."

Visual Purple Element in Night Vision

You don't have to be a corporation vice president to get a VP rating today. Everyone who spends time in the sun should be aware of the effect of bright sunshine on a chemical element on the retina of the eye, known as "visual purple." Under normal conditions, this element makes visual adjustment easy as daylight fades into dark. However, too much sun will drain this substance rapidly from the eye, and natural replacement is a very slow process. This makes night driving especially dangerous.

The remedy for this visual imbalance is a simple one. If a person wears sun glasses in the bright sun, the visual purple is not drained away in any appreciable amount, and night driving can be done safely. Your night vision can be lowered as much as 50 per cent if you do not have the protection you need.

Berrens and Miss Peg Simon were bridesmaids.

James Sensenbrenner acted as best man for his brother, Jerome Stangle, Bruce Neveu and Robert Michmerhuizen served as groomsmen. Guests were seated by Thomas McCallum and Keith Damro.

The Appleton Elks Club was the setting for a wedding reception.

The couple will live at 439 Mount Vernon St., Oshkosh, after a northern Wisconsin honeymoon.

The bride is employed at Marathon Division of American Can Co. Mr. Sensenbrenner, who received a B.A. degree from Layton School of Art, Milwaukee, is employed at Hoffmaster Steel of Oshkosh.
